

On Record - - by Ted Victor

POST CONVENTION PERIOD

Now that the Akron Convention of the Ukrainian Youth's League is over every effort must be made by the Youth to keep the interest stimulated by convention.

Remember the various reports that were made by representatives of state and sectional leagues. Bring them up at your own meetings.

Remember the people you have met at the Akron Convention. What is most important, be certain that you have their addresses.

Remember to give each and every member of your organization a good picture of just what took place in Akron.

NEIGHBORS

By P. MIRCHUK

(From "Visty". Translated by G. H.)

PHILLIP was Stepan's nearest neighbor, of the same age and irreconcilable enemy.

The latter relationship governed in Phillip's case. Even their fathers nursed a feud: it might have been a garden patch, or the hens, or the fence.

They never had political disputes. Phillip was not interested in politics, leaving it entirely to Stepan, who from his childhood dabbled in books and newspapers.

There could be no class enmity between them: both were "proletarians": each with a cottage, a garden, two measures of land and three little mouths to feed.

—We,—said he,—are both poor because of the following incident. Once we are standing by our gate, when we see—an old man coming.

—You ought to get the same as these others! But after all you are of Ukrainian blood.

There was only one reason for which Phillip might deliberately plete success. Bring out the interesting facts of publicity, united labor and overall cooperation that went into making the convention a success.

Remember to tell how good it was to meet so many young people from all over the states and Canada. Build it up to its proper position and make them feel good and sorry for not attending.

After you have remembered all that I have listed above and have told everything in detail to your organizations I suggest you sit right down begin thinking about the next convention.

Remember to give each and every member of your organization a good picture of just what took place in Akron.

nurture a desire of revenge against Stepan, and that occurred recently. Phillip, as was stated, was not interested in politics.

He stuttered, could not find the right word. And in that moment he heard an old woman in the first row break out into loud laughter.

Phillip directed his glance to the Political Chief, then again to the woman. Political Chief followed his glance, stopped at the woman and—became pale.

Phillip no longer remembers what took place then. He only remembers that the Political Chief, and the two agents of NKVD with him, were "taken care of" by the partisans.

Phillip could swear that the voice of the old man, the partisan commander, was the voice of—his neighbor Stepan.

The unexpected climax came unexpectedly for both. "Comrades from the city" or-

Traveling to the Convention

For the past number of years the Labor Day Convention of the Ukrainian Youth's League of North America has been the inspiration for many a young American Ukrainian to travel.

The hitch-hiker is one of the most zealous and colorful figures that we have travelling to our conventions. In most cases, in fact in all cases this group is comprised of men.

Before actually starting on the trip to Akron the hitch-hiker should make certain that he is dressed correctly. A neat and yet colorful outfit will attract much more attention than any drab suit.

As for all the other modes of travelling to the convention we of the United Ukrainian Convention Travellers' Alumni have but these few words of advice.

said without any question of doubt that both he and the driver are friendliest of terms.

One of the more hardy souls that ventures out to UYL-NA Conventions is the one that travels in a special bus with some forty other Ukrainians.

The hitch-hiker is one of the most zealous and colorful figures that we have travelling to our conventions.

As for all the other modes of travelling to the convention we of the United Ukrainian Convention Travellers' Alumni have but these few words of advice.

As for all the other modes of travelling to the convention we of the United Ukrainian Convention Travellers' Alumni have but these few words of advice.

United Ukrainian Convention Travellers' Alumni Pres.—Znow Pishow, Sec'y.—Chem Preykhov, Treas.—Ivan Zabludiv.

dered Phillip to drive to the woods for hay. But, when he was returning from the woods, hidden in the hay on the wagon were five agents of NKVD.

—He will surely fall into our hands today!—they said, looking at Stepan's house.

—Aren't they having a time, these cursed khakhols! Ukrainians! We finished the Germans, but can't liquidate the mazelintsi.

—That is nothing,—laughed a red-haired one,—we'll give them another "1933" and pacify them.

Phillip knew what this was all about—he was aiding them. Of course, even the village will be better off if they hang Stepan.

—He came!... Three of them! ...whispered the one who was peeking through the little window at Stepan's yard.

—Well, let him greet her and say farewell at the same time—answered the second one,—because afterwards he will get greetings from us!

The faith of immortality gives to every mind that cherishes it a certain firmness of texture.—Wilberforce.

New Allergy Remedy

A new drug has relieved 90% of hay fever victims treated with it. Dr. Fred W. Wittich, secretary of the American College of Allergists, announces that this will be reported in the Annals of Allergy (August-September), official publication of the College.

The new antihistaminic or anti-allergic symptoms in 83% of all allergic conditions. The study involved 227 patients suffering from 20 allergic and non-allergic conditions including hay fever, bronchial asthma, allergic skin reactions, hives, and angioneurotic edema.

Results reported by the group showed that 81 of 90 patients with hay fever were completely relieved; 15 out of 25 patients with bronchial asthma were markedly relieved and five only moderately; 15 to 22 patients with hives had complete release from symptoms and three moderate; every one of three patients with both hives and angioneurotic edema had complete relief.

The drug was given in tablet form in doses of 15.5 to 25 milligrams, one to four times daily. Side reactions from the drug, the most common of which was drowsiness, were severe in only two of the patients treated, the physicians reported.

They are carrying on further studies on the relation of blood pressure to side reactions of antihistaminic agents which will be reported upon later.

(Science News Letter, Aug. 28, '48)

On Education

Washington.—The nation's leading organization of high school teachers thinks teen-ages not only ought to know more about atomic energy but ought to do something about it.

It was prepared, with the cooperation of the Atomic Energy Commission, under the auspices of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, a department of the National Education Association. It is 95 pages long, illustrated and sells for 60 cents a copy with large discounts if you buy it in quantity.

There are two rather unusual things about this particular booklet for high school students and teachers. In the first place it urges that students do more than simply get for themselves the know-how about the problems and possibilities of the new energy.

It quotes at length from such men as Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago and Norman Cousins, editor of the "Saturday Review of Literature," bringing out their belief that the ultimate answer to the danger of atomic destruction should be a world government.

Good manners are a part of our morals; and it is as much your duty as your interest, to practice both.—Hunter.

Training For Leadership and Democracy - - - by G. A.

For all we know—it may be the habit acquired during the school age that prompts the Ukrainian American Youth to gather from all parts of the country for an annual convention during the Labor Day week-end.

The analogy proves to be quite appropriate when we examine the program of the Convention. At first glance we get the impression that very much has been compressed within the period of three days, and we wonder how the intellect will be able to digest it.

The preparation of the program alone, was a gigantic task for the Akron group that was constituted as a Convention Committee. The many varied problems that confronted this Committee and that were solved, required a close organization, superior ability in management, resourcefulness and keen sense of judgement.

Coming to the program itself

Small Stuff

That auto driver, who had 15 stitches in the scalp, ought to use his head in the future.

That man, who built a two-car garage a few years ago, was foresighted. He can now live in the other side.

Opposites make the best marriage partners, says a jungle. Is that why so many men seek rich wives and vice versa.

The man who has no secrets from his wife has either confessed or been found out.

It's always easy to figure what you should have said right after it's too late to say it.

Anybody can meet expenses if he tries, says a writer. Yeah, the real trick is to avoid them.

Illinois bandits robbed a poker game and the winners found themselves to be the biggest losers.

A Kansas woman is taking her first vacation in 90 years. Maybe that's why she lived to be 90.

It's a lot easier to have harmony in the home when someone is willing to play second fiddle.

During the war it was a non-existent Kremlin responsible for many annoying nuisances. In the post-war world it's a very real Kremlin.

Bumper crop of corn is forecast. Let's hope this does not refer to the radio comedians, soon due back on the air.

The Russians have invented a new kind of accordion. Let's see now—that's a musical instrument that works best under pressure, doesn't it?

It is unlikely that you or any of your classmates will die prematurely of cancer or heart disease, or from any contagious diseases, or from any other human ills that afflict us now.

(For information on how to obtain book write to National Education Association, 1201 16th Street, N.W., Washington 5, D. C.)

we stop at the Forum Sessions: carefully prepared speeches on the current problems, discussions of these problems based on the criteria of democratic way of life—that is the serious portion of the program.

The concluding Business Sessions are the last on the program but not the least in importance. Here are decided the policies of the organization and the election of new people who will carry out these policies.

The other items on the Convention program are no less educational than they are enjoyable. Listening to the soloists and choral groups will combine pleasure with music appreciation.

To the attending delegates and guests, the Convention is not a series of unrelated program numbers but a rounded-out refresher course. Even the banquet, which may appear to be purely entertaining in nature, has its training value in the general set-up.

Fifteen years of the Ukrainian Youth League's existence have worked many changes in personnel, in customs, and in the attitudes. Each convention brings out new personalities and new ideas.

Stephen J. Jarema, former officer of the League, became a State Assemblyman in New York.

Joseph Lesawyer, former treasurer of the League, Captain in the Army, is now manager of Real Estate Department of Adam Hats.

John Panchuk, past president of the League, once Assistant Prosecutor for the State of Michigan, now vice-president of an insurance casualty company.

Associated with the work of the League are Mary Polynak Lesawyer, operatic singer, affiliated with the New York Civic Opera Company, and—Donna Grescoe, violinist, who made her debut in Carnegie Hall last November.

Truly the Youth's League and the Conventions have been training grounds for many Ukrainian American young men and women.

"SVOBODA" (UKRAINIAN DAILY)

FOUNDED 1893

Ukrainian newspaper published daily except Sundays and holidays by the Ukrainian National Association, Inc., 81-83 Grand St., Jersey City 3, N. J.

Entered as Second Class Mail Matter at Post Office of Jersey City, N. J. on March 10, 1911 under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for Section 1103 of the Act of October 3, 1917 authorized July 31, 1918.

Classified Advertising Department, 597 - 7th Ave., New York 18, N. Y.

