U.N.A. SUPREME ASSEMBLY BEGINS YEARLY SESSION

The second yearly meeting (since the last Convention) of the Supreme Officers opens this morning at Hotel Statler, New York City. What is formally known as the "Supreme Assembly" consists of the Supreme Executive Committee of five members, the Supreme Auditing Committee of five members, and the Board of Advisors of eleven members.

The auditing committee has been examining the accounts and the wealth of the organization since Monday, March the tenth. Mr. D. Kapitula, of McAdoo, Pa., has been on hand early Monday morning to get a good start; he is the chairman of the auditing committee and has served in that capacity for many years. Other members of that committee, who reported for duty at the Home Office of U.N.A., are: Stephen Kuropas of Chicago, Ill., Walter Hirniak of Toronto, Wolodymyr Kossar of Winnipeg, and Dr. Ambrose Kibzey of Detroit, Michigan.

Supreme President, Dmytro Halychyn, will open the session with a welcoming address and present the program, and then the business of the meeting will get under way. Mr. Halychyn will be assisted in presiding at the sessions by the Supreme Vice-President, Joseph Leawyer, and the Supreme Vice-Presidentess, Mrs. Genevieve Zerobniak. They will read their respective reports of their activities in the interests of U.N.A. during the last year. They will be followed by the reports from the Supreme Secretary, Gregory Herman, and the Supreme Treasurer, Roman Slobodian.

Following the reports of the executive committee the auditing committee will present the results of last week's work of auditing. The Board of Advisors will then take its turn in reporting what each member had accomplished during the preceding year. Unless held back by the railroad strike, the following Supreme Advisors will take their places in the meeting: Dmytro Shmagala of Cleveland, Ohio; John Romani- of Irvington, N. J.; Dr. John Wasylenko of Toronto; John Kokolski of Woonsocket, R.I.; Peter Kuchma of New York City; Walter Didyk of Detroit, Mich.; Nicholas Dawy-skyba of Mattapan, Mass.; Taras Shpikula of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Helen Shtogryn of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Anna Wasylowsky of Chicago, Ill.; and William Hussar of Rochester, N.Y.

The yearly session will most likely continue the whole week as there are important matters to be discussed and decided, among them being the project to purchase an estate for the use as a recreation center and as Home for the Aged. The conclave promises to open and remain under the sign of greater social and cultural activity within the U.N.A. branches and a revival of the fraternal

Dumka Chorus Sings For World Broadcast

At a Crusade for Freedom mobilization demonstration held last Wednesday, March 12, in Snyder High School, Jersey City, N. J., one of the highlights of the program was the singing of the famed 60-voice male "Dumka" Chorus, directed by Mr. Krushelnitsky.

The entire program, which also featured the Jersey City Philharmonic Symphony Society, and 2 minute talks by 31 Jersey City persons who are naturalized citizens born in foreign countries, was recorded by engineers for relay by radio to countries behind the Iron Curtain and the 18 nations under the Marshall plan in Europe. The speakers hit at Communism and dictatorial policies which prevail in Asia and Europe. Here, it is worth noting, the sponsors of the program did not provide to have a Ukrainian speaker.

Sergeant Dyke Air Medal Posthumously

Technical Sergeant Andrew A. Dyke, Ukrainian, has just received the award of The Air Medal (Posthumously) from the President of the United States. The citation to accom- pany the award of The Air Medal, states:

Sgt. Andrew Dyke

"Technical Sergeant Andrew A. Dyke, 32427528, Air Corps, Army of the United States, — distinguished himself by meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight in the European Theater of Operations from 23 September 1943 to 9 October 1943. The technical skill, exceptional courage, and selfless devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Dyke, as Aerial Gunner, contributed to the success of bombardment operations and reflect credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

A few years ago, Technical Sergeant Andrew A. Dyke had also been honored with The Purple Heart.

This past June the sports award given each year at the East Rockaway High School Graduation exercises to the student most outstanding in athletics has been named The Andrew A. Dyke Athletic Award in commemoration for his outstanding feats in athletics at the high school.

While a student at East Rockaway High School, Andrew began his aviation training at Roosevelt Field. Following his graduation from high school, he took further training in ground crew operations which led to his Civil Service position at Patterson Field, Ohio until the outbreak of World War II. Andrew A. Dyke was more than just a Ukrainian by descent, but by his actions as well. He supported Ukrainian functions whole heartedly, sacrificed with joy many of his youthful hours studying long parts of Ukrainian plays and other stage performances in order to keep money for Ukrai- nian causes. Among the many friends he invariably made in his travels, the Ukrainian ones he met would not believe he was Ukrainian until he spoke to them in Ukrainian. The other non-Ukrainian always came away knowing something more about the true story of Ukraine. His frequent letters home to his mother and father were consistently written in Ukrainian. It is no wonder that the news of his death proved such a shock, and to this very day continues to leave his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dyke, of 12 Center Ave., Lyn- brook, L. I., N. Y., broken in heart and health.

SOVIET MILITARY IDEOLOGY

Lately the Soviet military press has published a number of articles popularizing Soviet military ideology and revealing the essence of the Soviet military science. As two ex- amples among many others the articles of Colonel I. Tiurin and Major-General N. Pukhov- ski in Krasnaya Zvezda may be mentioned. As well known, anything published in the USSR, represents the official point of view.

A feature emphasized above all by these articles as well as by others—including those by Lenin, Stalin, Frunze, Voroshilov, Bulganin—is that the Soviet military ideology is an organic part of the Socialist ideology prevalent in the U. S. S. R. "Like all other forms of the Soviet Socialist ideology, it serves the great historic aim —i.e. the victory of Communism" (Tiurin). As apparent, the Soviets make no attempt to disguise the aggressive character of their ideology. The Soviet Union originated as a result of the victory of Socialism in one country and not simultaneously in all the important capitalist countries as foreseen by Marx and Engels. As a consequence the USSR is to date in a state of so-called "capitalist encirclement" and the only means to escape this is the destruction of capitalism wherever it still exists. The Soviet army is built up for this purpose and the Soviet military ideology has no other aim: for defence is of secondary and attack of primary importance.

Although Lenin deviated from the doctrine of Marx and Engels by admitting the possibility of establishing Com- munism in one country only, in one thing did he and Stalin follow the Marx-Engels doctrine faithfully, viz., that the Communist regime in the US- SR can continue to exist only on condition that it spreads to other countries which are capitalist as yet. The assurances, repeated from time to time, that Communism and capital- ism can co-exist peacefully, are only a tactical maneuver be- cause no Soviet theoretician has ever denied that the US- SR is consciously preparing for the "least struggle", which is considered inevitable and will be started at the most propitious moment. The territorial conquests and the enormous expansion of the sphere of influence of the USSR in the last decade have to be viewed in the light of this theory and the idea still prevalent in certain Western quarters that the Soviets are striving for a "cardon sani- taire".

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE ABOUT IT

We, members of the U.N.A., composed of the early im- migrants who built and de- veloped our organization, their children who in their turn have helped to develop it further, and now the newly arrived, the former DP's, all of us should take under serious considera- tion the growing lack of in- terest in the U. N. A. among the pioneers and builders of it and among the so-called Ukrainian American youth, the age of which runs into the forties, all American born.

The early immigrants, who put so much effort, money, savings, who attended meetings regularly (to be scolded by their "better-halves" for com- ing home so late), who argued and — figuratively speaking — fought at the Branch meetings and the Conventions, but who in the end adjusted their dif- ferences and came through with flying colors for the benefit of the organization, today they have in many instances retired from active participa- tion in U. N. A. activities.

(1) growing old (2) "I've done my share." Solution: Some program must be adopted, more atten- tion should be paid to them by the organization, in order to bring them back into the fold. Our young people, are particu- larly derelict in showing in- terest in the U. N. A. Just a fraction of their activities re- solve around the U.N.A. About their only contact with it is The Ukrainian Weekly, which keeps them posted on U. N. A. activities and urges them to bestir themselves in its behalf. It is not that they lack orga- nizational ability, initiative and energy. Witness the UYL-NA. A possible reason for it is that the U.N.A. has not suf- ficiently concentrated upon them, has not conducted a drive vigorous enough, well planned and well conducted, to bring them into the fold and harness their energies for the benefit of the organization. We have always dreamed of seeing a U.N.A. Youth League, which would work in harmony with the UYL-NA.

A part of the Shevchenko celebration the Ukrainian Ra- dio Program "Echoes of Ukra- ine" over W.C.C.C. (12:35 P. M. at 1290 on the dial) devoted its entire time to music, poems and talks, both in English and Ukrainian on Taras Shevchen- ko. Appearing on the program were Mr. Bandera, Mr. Roma- nyshyn, Miss M. Moletska and Mr. J. Seleman. The program is under the direction of Mr. John Charnyha.

Orthodox League to Hold Convention

The Fifth Annual Convention of the Ukrainian Orthodox League of America will be held, this year, on June 27, 28, and 29 in Philadelphia at the very famous Bellevue-Strat- ford Hotel. The Philadelphia Convention Committee, orga- nized at a regional meeting on October 28, 1951, elected J. Podgurski of Philadelphia as its chairman. Active interest in preparation for the convention has been shown by Philadel- phia's neighboring cities; resi- dents of Chester, Wilmington, Trenton, Minersville, and Coatesville are working along with Philadelphians on the various subordinate committees to make this Fifth Convention an interesting and enjoyable event to be long remembered by all those who will attend. Much interest has been stim- ulated in the Philadelphia area by Rally-Dances sponsored by the Convention Committee and held in nearby cities. These Rally-Dances have provided a means for informing everyone of the activities and functions of the League and have served as a threshold for new friends- ships. After the Lenten season, these affairs will be continued as they have proved to be an integral part of pre-convention activity. Everyone is sincerely invit- ed to attend these pre-conven- tion affairs and especially the final festival which will be the June Convention. Those who wish to receive any information or literature pertaining to the convention and the pre-conven- tion activities, kindly submit your name and address to: Miss Helen Senyshyn, 2624 North Franklin Street, Phila- delphia 33, Pennsylvania.
