

Soviet Anger Shows Radio Liberation Broadcasts Reach Ukrainian People

Indubitable evidence that the Ukrainian broadcasts of Radio Liberation are "piercing the Iron Curtain to hit hard at their target area in the Soviet Ukraine has been provided by the Soviet newspaper Radianska Ukraina, published in Kiev.

Revealing that the ideological shafts aimed by the Ukrainian desk of Radio Liberation have wounded the Communist rulers of the Ukrainian Soviet republic, an article in the August 4 issue by Mykhailo Banyk, who is described as "a resident of Uzhhorod," attempts to refute the charges which the emigre radio station has beamed to the enslaved Ukrainian people.

Banyk's article recites all the standard propaganda stereotypes of Soviet propaganda. Asserting that the "Soviet regime is a government of workers and peasants," he asks, "What 'liberation' are you babbling about; whom do you want to liberate and from whom? ... You want to liberate workers and peasants from workers and peasants." The Communist Party, according to Banyk, consists of "leading workers and peasants" and for 40 years it has been building "a new, free, happy life" in the Ukraine.

The broadcasts are attributed to "the trash of the yellow-an-blue," an obvious reference to the members of the Ukrainian National RADA working for Radio Liberation. The flag of the Ukrainian republic in 1917-18 was yellow and blue. Banyk writes that this "trash" was swept out together with tsarism and capitalism and is now "shrieking from behind a rock beyond the ocean." He obviously believes that Radio Liberation is focused in the United States. He proceeds to denounce the emigre broadcasters as "renegades," "hickmities" and "hirlings of the dollar."

"WHOM AND FROM WHOM..."

Translation of RADIO LIBERATION Broadcast in Ukrainian on August 17, 1956.

"Whom and from whom do you wish to liberate?" That is the question that a new-made citizen of the Soviet Union, Mykhailo Banyk, of Uzhhorod, directed at Radio Liberation through the republican paper "Radianska Ukraina" on August 4 of this year.

As our listeners know, we answer this question in our every broadcast. And thus it would be possible instead of answering his question, to call on Mykhailo Banyk simply to listen more to us and to observe more closely the realities that surround him. But in connection with the fact that Mykhailo Banyk, as he writes about himself, "only recently became a citizen of the Soviet Union" and thus has not had opportunity to look closely at everything and has observed the surrounding reality through glasses which have been placed over his eyes by the adroit Bolshevik propaganda—we will try, if only briefly, to answer our honored countryman. But first several corrections.

Future of Every Individual, — National and International Problems

How strong are the Russians' out undermining our fundamental values and institutions." Moreover, the situation is vastly complicated by the fact the threat is not solely a military one—it also involves economic, psychological, and subversive programs. Thus, "We must be constantly prepared and remain sufficient flexible to counter all of these threats simultaneously."

Still another difficulty faced by the Defense Department, Admiral Radford went on, lies in "gearing production schedules to anticipated obsolescence." The nuclear, aeronautical and electronic sciences wait for no man. Revolutionary changes and developments may take place almost overnight. Thus, the question of obsolescence weighs heavily in deciding how many weapons of any particular type should be produced.

In view of all this, Admiral Radford said, "I believe that at the present time and under present world conditions the over-all defense program is a sound one."

Then, in answer to questioning by subcommittee members, Admiral Radford dealt with various phases of that program. He does not for instance, believe that guided missiles will drastically change the picture for a considerable time to come. He opposes the proposal that it is time to abolish the present military services and replace them with a single service and a single uniform. As he put it, "We could all go in the same uniform and we would still have compartmentation within this single uniform."

He does believe that modern weapons make it possible for a nation to have powerful deterrents with smaller force than in the past—and that we have such deterrents and will have still more effective ones in the future! He feels that the North Koreans would not have attacked South Korea in 1950 if we had even one little combat unit on the 38th parallel.

Working here generally are those who saw how their "pink hopes" were covered by the scar of corpses of Ukrainian people. They are people who saw how the riches of Ukraine—the property of the Ukrainian people—were taken away at the time when Ukraine's people were swollen with hunger, were barefoot and naked. They saw the physical destruction of their people; saw the trains which took to Siberia and the Far East, the stuff of Ukraine's future. In a word, the people who work here are those who saw much more than the new-made "Soviet citizen" can see. They saw this once and see that it has not changed today. Today, too, the Ukrainian peasant gathers grain on Ukrainian soil but not for himself. Ukrainian wheat goes to support Bolshevik propaganda, Ukrainian pig iron and steel go for the arming of China and Egypt. The Communist Party is robbing the Ukrainian people. It is from its domination that we want to liberate the Ukrainian people. To liberate it from everything that the rule of a handful of bureaucrats-parasites has brought it. And for this reason, dear countryman and new-made "Soviet citizen," Mykhailo Banyk to liberate you as well. To liberate you from the fear because of which you sign your name to everything written for you by the party bosses. To liberate you so that you might say what you think; do what suits you and to look at everything with your own eyes and not through spectacles put on you by someone else. This is what we are fighting for. This, and not "dollars" as you write, is what makes us work for Radio Liberation.

THIS WEEK IN AMERICAN HISTORY

On September 12, 1686—two hundred and seventy years ago—John Alden, one of the best known of the Pilgrim Fathers, died at the age of 87. Alden, a cooper of Southampton, England, was hired to repair the Mayflower before the Pilgrims set sail on the ship for the New World. At the last moment he decided to join the company. It is said that he was the first to set foot on Plymouth Rock. Alden married Priscilla Mullins after a courtship made famous in Longfellow's poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish." The phrase, "Speak for yourself, John," found in the poem, has become a by-word. Alden, sent by Standish to ask Priscilla's hand in marriage, pleaded his friend's cause. Priscilla listened to Alden's praises of his best friend, but when he had finished, she replied, according to legend: "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" It is a matter of record that Alden was a magistrate of the colony for almost 50 years and outlived all of the signers of the Mayflower Compact. He was an ancestor of John Adams, second President of the United States.

STUDY AND COMPARE

The Ukrainian National Association has more than 71,000 members. Although it is the leading Ukrainian fraternal benefit society in the United States it should not be taken for granted that its organizational work is ended. No, indeed. As a matter of fact, it has just scratched the surface and there is still much to be done. Of course, 71,000 members is impressive in itself—but it must be remembered that there are more than a million of our people in the United States and Canada.

Being a fraternal benefit society, the UNA has certain advantages over commercial insurance companies. The latter employ agents who sell insurance policies and collect premiums. An agent receives a percentage of the premiums he collects as commission. Naturally, he will strive to sell policies requiring high premiums. That the agents have succeeded in selling such policies was proven to us when we visited some Ukrainian families in quest of prospective members for the UNA. Some of the families were paying hundreds of dollars annually for a few thousand dollars worth of insurance. The UNA needs no agents as its business is conducted through its 500 branches. It therefore has little overhead expense and is in a position to offer attractive types of insurance certificates at reasonable rates.

It is difficult to get people interested in the UNA when they hold insurance in commercial companies. They complain that they are paying a lot of money for insurance and joining the UNA would only add to their financial burden. They are right, of course. But the job of the UNA worker is to make these people see the benefits of UNA membership, as well as the advantages over the commercial companies. The average person does not read his policy; he assumes that it would be difficult to understand. The UNA worker should explain everything, and when his listener fully understands him he should compare UNA certificates with the commercial policies. When the prospect sees the differences between the two, half of the job is done and it is only a matter of another visit or two before the UNA worker enrolls the prospect into UNA membership.
