INTENSIFY CAMPAIGN FOR U.N.A. MEMBERSHIP ON SEVENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF 'SVOBODA' AND THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF 'THE UKRAINIAN WEEKLY'

UNA SUPREME OFFICERS CALL ON "UKRAINIAN WEEKLY READERS TO TAKE ACTIVE PART IN DRIVE

Organized Strength the Key To Progress

By JOSEPH LESAWYER Supreme President of the UNA

Earlier this year an appeal was made to the readers of Svoboda and The Ukrainian Weekly to honor the 70th Anniversary of this foremost Ukrainian daily and the 30th Anniversary of The Ukrainian Weekly by organizing one member for the Ukrainian National Association during this year's campaign. This step is most logical and makes sense because the two newspapers are the official organs of the UNA and Svoboda's successes in the past have been, in great part, due to the moral, financial, and organizational support received from the UNA membership. In turn Svoboda and The Weekly carried the banner of Soyuz. The success and progress of one affected the other.

To All Subscribers and Readers of SVOBODA and UKRAINIAN WEEKLY

Dear Reader: Seventy years ago, in 1893, our daily newspaper Svoboda was founded. It came into being not because of a whim of a financial tycoon or the burning zeal of a political group searching for more adherents. Svoboda came into being to fill the need of the newly arrived immigrants in America for news, information, advice, instruction, guidance, and most of all, hope in a future for their children and their loved ones.

We can accomplish our goal by building a mightier Ukrainian National Association—by organizing more members for Batko Soyuz. You, dear reader, can join us in this effort by organizing one (1) member during these Anniversary years. If every reader will fulfill this minimum goal, our U.N.A. membership can be increased by approximately 18,000 members, which would bring the total membership to over 100,000.

TO THE EDITOR OF SVOBODA: In honor of Svoboda's 70th Anniversary I want to join other Svoboda and Ukrainian Weekly readers in organizing at least one member for the Ukrainian National Association. The following person has agreed to become a member: Name Address Date of birth Place of birth Single Married Age of Children Amount of Insurance desired $ (up to $50,000) Please check appropriate line: [] Send an application blank to me. [] Send an application blank to the proposed member. P.S. Names of prospective members and the organizers will be published in the Svoboda Honor Roll and each organizer will receive an Honorary UNA Organizer Certificate.

Youth and the U.N.A.

By ANNA HERMAN, UNA Vice-Presidentess

Thirty years of service have proven The Ukrainian Weekly to be a dynamic force in three generations of Ukrainian American youth. It has been responsible for the success of the first Youth Congress and of others that followed. Year after year, as another class of youngsters makes its debut, The Ukrainian Weekly responds to the desires of the new readers. Most of us take The Ukrainian Weekly for granted. Comes Saturday, we look for it, glance through its pages, stop at our favorite feature, then peruse the rest at leisure. Having read it from beginning to end, we feel that we are very well posted on the Ukrainian affairs in general and on the doings of Ukrainian American youth in particular. How we miss it when it does not arrive on time!

Let Us Do It With a Figure 100,000 Total Members in the U.N.A.

By JOHN KOKOLSKI, UNA Supreme Auditor

Earlier this year it was announced by the Executive Supreme officers of the Ukrainian National Assn., that a membership campaign will be in effect during this year in observance of the 70th anniversary of Svoboda and the development of the U.N.A. We need not forget that this year is also the 30th anniversary of Svoboda and the development of the U.N.A. Now that we have reached the new all time height in total membership as well as in total assets along with excess reserves and the amount of insurance in force, by no means should it be a reason for relaxation or to become carefree, as you may know that we as an organization could quickly decline because of membership loss, through deaths, maturities, paid-up certificates, cash surrenders and many other reasons for dropouts which could create a harmful situation if nothing is done to replenish such losses. The answer is, to activate all our membership during this campaign for further development and growth of the U.N.A. This campaign is planned somewhat differently from previous membership drives, not

Let's Assure Growth of the U.N.A.

Svoboda, the official organ of the Ukrainian National Association is celebrating its 70th anniversary this year, and its English supplement, The Ukrainian Weekly, its 30th. We are proud indeed of the outstanding success they have achieved through the long period of their existence. They have given our members good coverage of news about their brethren overseas, and have continued to open the eyes of the world on the plight of our Ukrainian nation which has been ruthlessly plundered and destroyed by one enemy after another over the years. They have been especially effective in publicizing the evils of a despotic rule which seeks to destroy the world, Communism. Svoboda and The Ukrainian Weekly have been the arms of the Ukrainian National Association throughout the period of their existence, and have published news of its membership, its successes, its hopes and its aspirations. Just as the arms are dependent upon the body to which they are attached, for their nourishment and their very life, so Svoboda and The Ukrainian Weekly are dependent upon the great body

Commission of Fine Arts Gives Final Approval to Shevchenko Statue

PREPARATION OF THE STATUE TO COMMENCE; UNVEILING SCHEDULED FOR SPRING OF 1964

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special). — On Wednesday, April 17, 1963 the Commission of Fine Arts, a federal agency regulating construction on government property in Washington, unanimously approved the modified plan of the Shevchenko monument. The project for the Shevchenko statue was created by sculptor Leonid Mol-Molodozhanyan, while Dr. Radoslav Zuk, Ukrainian Canadian of Winnipeg, the consulting architect prepared the landscaping plan for the Shevchenko site. By this act of the Commission of Fine Arts, the official formalities regarding the erection of the Shevchenko monument in Washington have been completed. The meeting of the Commission was attended by sculptor Molodozhanyan and Architect Zuk, Dr. Lev E. Dobriansky, vice president, and Joseph Lesawyer, executive director of the Shevchenko Memorial Committee of America. Members of the Commission, including David E. Finley, President, and Ralph Walker, Felix W. de Weldon, William G. Perry, Hideo Sasaki, Peter Hurd and Linton R. Wilson, Secretary — expressed their wholehearted satisfaction with the monument and praised the project enthusiastically. According to the plans of the Shevchenko Memorial Committee, the ground-breaking ceremony at the Shevchenko site will be held this fall, while the momentous unveiling of the Shevchenko statue will be held in the late spring of 1964, the 150th anniversary of Shevchenko's birth. The Commission of Fine Arts was established during the presidency of President William H. Taft. The duties of the Commission is to "advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets and parks in the District of Columbia." The approval of the Shevchenko statue and the landscaping plan complete the official formalities of the United States Government. Now it is up to the Ukrainian American people to exert all possible efforts to make the forthcoming ceremonies and festivities connected with the unveiling of the Shevchenko monument worthy of the great name and universal heritage of Taras Shevchenko, Ukraine's immortal bard and national hero.

The Washington Post Praises Shevchenko Statue Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In a feature article on a proposed government building in the nation's capital, Willard Clouton, staff reporter for The Washington Post wrote some very favorable comments regarding the Shevchenko statue, which was finally approved by the Fine Arts Commission. In the April 18, 1963 issue of this widely-read capital daily, Reporter Clouton wrote: "The Commission (Fine Arts Commission—Ed.) was much more enthusiastic about another item on its agenda—the proposed design for a statue of Taras Shevchenko, a Ukrainian poet who will be honored next year on the 150th anniversary of his birth. The memorial is to be located on a small triangular park bounded by 22nd, 23 and P Streets, N.W. "Canadian sculptor Leo Mol, who has been commissioned to create the 14-foot statue, said he conceived Shevchenko as "a symbol of oppressed humanity of all ages." "Lev E. Dobriansky, professor of Soviet economy at Georgetown University, spoke on behalf of the congressionally chartered Shevchenko Memorial Committee. He said he hoped ground-breaking for the statue could take place in September, with unveiling to follow next May. "The Commission unanimously approved Mol's scale model design for the memorial but suggested some minor modifications in the site plan."

Archbishop Slipy's Release Seen Dramatizing Plight of Ukraine

WINNIPEG, Man., April 18 (NC). — A Ukrainian Rite prelate's recent release from a Soviet prison dramatized before the world the long persecution of Ukrainian Catholics, Canada's four Ukrainian bishops have declared. The bishops said the release from a Soviet jail of Archbishop Joseph Slipy of Lviv "has put the cause of the persecution of our Church and our enslaved people in the forefront of the world's attention." The four Ukrainian bishops in Canada are Archbishop Maxime Hermaniuk of Winnipeg, Bishop Neil Savaryn of Edmonton, Bishop Andrew Roborecky of Saskatoon and Bishop Isidore Borecky of Toronto. "The fortitude of our Church and the whole Ukrainian people in defense of Christ's truth and the freedom of peoples can... be attributed to God's Providence," the bishops said in a joint Easter pastoral.

State Department Holds National Foreign Policy Conference

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special). — On Monday and Tuesday, April 22 and 23, 1963 the State Department held a National Foreign Policy Conference for Editors and Broadcasters, at which a number of high State Department officials, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, took part. President Kennedy also spoke off the record at the conference. The conference covered a great range of topics, such as the U.S. role in Europe, Latin America, the Near East and South Asia, the Foreign Aid Program, Disarmament, the United Nations, space developments, the Far East, the cold war and defense. Among some 600 editors and newscasters were also representatives of the foreign language newspapers, including J. Lesawyer, supreme president of the UNA, Anthony Dragan, editor-in-chief of Svoboda, and M. Dolnytsky, representing America, Ukrainian Catholic daily of Philadelphia.

Gene Kinasevich, Harvard Captain

All of a sudden, Gene Kinasevich said, the honor and responsibility of being a Harvard captain hit like an H-bomb. This was the reaction of G. Kinasevich, when he was saluted as the new captain of the Harvard Crimson ice forces, at an annual dinner, held at the Harvard Club on March 18. The Boston Globe hailed the Kinasevich story at Harvard as a combination of Horatio Alger heroes and the Merriwell brothers. The Boston Traveler reported that the Harvard alumni and friends of hockey gave a standing ovation when Ukrainian descent Gene Kinasevich was introduced as the 1963-64 captain of the Harvard Hockey Team. Gene, born in Smokey Lake, near Edmonton, Canada, was one of 13 orphaned children born of Ukrainian parents. The seventh boy, Gene never dreamed of going to college, with Harvard certainly never in his mind. An excellent hockey player, he was on the Edmonton teams, sponsored by the Detroit Red Wings and received some money over a two-year period. While attending Harvard, a friend of Gene's older brother Orvie, constantly talked about the Ukrainian hockey player back in Edmonton. And then things began to happen. His name was sent to Dr. Frank Boyden, head of Deerfield Academy in Springfield, Mass. Gene was accepted at Deerfield, graduated from the 12th grade with honors and entered Harvard as a freshman in 1960. But then things didn't look too good. Because of the money he received in Edmonton, the Ivy League protested and voted Gene ineligible to play hockey as a freshman. He played as a sophomore, when cleared by the Ivy League, and then the E.C.A.C. barred him, basing everything on an article about

Gene which appeared in a sports magazine. With the support of Harvard's Dean Watson, Boston University's director of athletics Vic Stout and director of athletics at Tufts University Harry Arlanson, Gene was reinstated shortly after the start of the 1962-1963 season. At Harvard, Gene is majoring in Social Relations and Guidance Counseling. To improve his Ukrainian language he spent last summer with a Ukrainian family in Lexington, New York. In order to retain his scholarship, Gene has to keep a high scholastic average, yet finds time to be active in the Ukrainian Student Club. Gene also spends some of his time in helping underprivileged boys in the Cambridge area. He is now doing research for his senior thesis, "The Attempts of Ukrainians in America to Retain their National Identity." And so here he is, the Ukrainian orphan who never dreamed of College, the captain of Harvard hockey. L. B.

Ben-Zvi, Ukrainian-Born President Of Israel, Dies

JERUSALEM, April 23. — President Itzhak Ben-Zvi of Israel died of cancer today at the age of 78. Ben-Zvi was chosen as Israel's second President in 1952, a month after President Chaim Weizmann's death. He was twice reelected, for the second time last December. The tall, bespectacled scholar cut an austere figure in Israel's national life. Born in the city of Poltava in Ukraine in 1884, he experienced persecutions at the hands of the Russian Czarist police, and his family was exiled to Siberia. Ben-Zvi escaped and helped to organize the labor movement in Palestine. He knew the Ukrainian language well and was well acquainted with the history and political aspirations of the Ukrainian people.

Organized Strength—The Key To Progress

(Concluded from page 1) decades and today two of the greatest ethnic groups in the new world are the Ukrainian Congress Committee and the Canadian Ukrainian Committee. These committees have made vast contributions to the life of United States and Canada, as well as to all the free world. We have numerous church parishes that have already celebrated their 75th anniversaries. Svoboda is celebrating its 70th. Next year the UNA will celebrate its 70th birthday. Other Ukrainian fraternalists have passed their 50th anniversaries. All around us we see that our Ukrainian roots are deep in the soil and traditions of the new world.

An outstanding indication of our forging ahead is that we have two American-born Bishops in the United States, the Most Rev. Joseph Schmondiuk of Stamford and the Most Rev. Jaroslav Gabro of Chicago, and one Canadian-born Bishop, the Most Reverend Andrew Roborecky of Saskatoon in the Ukrainian Catholic Church in Canada. Our Catholic and Orthodox parishes are staffed by scores of priests, including Monsignors, born here; numerous churches and modern schools valued in the millions of dollars have been constructed and many more are in the planning stage. One of the latest accomplishments is the building of a Taras Shevchenko monument in Winnipeg, Canada and the planning of a similar statue in Washington, D. C. on grounds donated by the United States. This project which was approved in final form last week by the authorities in Washington will be built with funds donated by over 20,000 Ukrainians. To date over a quarter of a million of dollars has been collected.

When we add all of these things up, we truly find that we have an astounding record. And it was made possible only through cooperation and organization. Our parents, grandparents, and great grandparents instinctively recognized the need for working together. They pooled their resources and their talents and moved themselves up the economic

Readers Comment on Film Travelogue

I On April 7th, an excellent film on "Moscow and the Ukraine," sponsored by Soyuz Ukrainok Branch 72, was shown at the Ukrainian Institute in New York City. We are, quite frankly surprised that no write up appeared in your publication as the film was superbly edited, narrated and moving enough to bring tears to the eyes of the audience who once again saw their beloved Ukraine; and for us Ukrainian-Americans, gave a chance to see the ancestral home of our parents, the Cossacks and such greats as Taras Shevchenko.

We saw it as it is today, and it gave us an insight as to the way of life we might have had had we not been born in the free world. May we respectfully suggest that Svoboda sponsor the merit of this film so that perhaps others may have the opportunity to see for themselves. sincerely, Mr. & Mrs. Yaroslav Guralny Astoria, L. I.

II On Sunday, April 7, 1963, a preview of a film-travelogue by Mr. and Mrs. Myron Kuscenko, a Ukrainian American couple from Elizabeth, N. J. who recently made a trip to Europe, including Ukraine and Russia, was presented at the Ukrainian Institute of America in New York City. The program was sponsored by Branch 72 of "Soyuz Ukrainok."

The record-size audience which crowded the Ukrainian Institute auditorium, necessitating a second showing of this color film, demonstrated the great interest of the Ukrainian public in the film subject, and the Kuscenkos are to be commended for their initiative and efforts in trying to convey their impressions of the journey. However, many of the more sophisticated in the audience were disappointed in the film for several reasons. First of all, there was an unjustifiable portion of it devoted to Moscow, and the audience, would have preferred to have seen more of Ukraine.

Another important impression that one received was that Mrs. Katherine Kuscenko, who narrated the travelogue, was either afraid to freely speak her mind or she was not thoroughly acquainted with the Ukrainian historical, national and cultural background. Although much of her commentary was interesting, some of her comments were baffling and incomprehensible to the Ukrainian audience. At times, she created the impression that she did not want to identify Ukrainians as such. We kept hearing the term "Soviet people," two girls from Paltava, etc., although everyone knew that she meant Ukrainians.

In mentioning Bohdan Khmelnytsky, Mrs. Kuscenko could have added a few more vital facts about him. Shevchenko was not only a poet of "Ukrainian peasants and workers" (a typical Soviet interpretation) but he was the na-

On April 2, 1963 the Annual Meeting of CACEED (Conference of Americans of Central and Eastern European Descent) took place in New York City, at which representatives of the UCCA took part. The UCCA is a full-fledged member of the CACEED since 1956. UCCA representatives were Joseph Lesawyer, UCCA executive vice president, and Walter Dushnyk, editor of UCCA publications. At the conclusion of the meeting a general election to the executive board of the CACEED was held to which J. Lesawyer was elected chairman of CACEED and W. Dushnyk was chosen chairman of the Press and Information Committee. A series of resolutions were adopted, most of which supported the cause of the captive nations.

On Saturday, April 6, 1963 Walter Dushnyk was the guest speaker at the public meeting sponsored by the UCCA branch in Philadelphia, Pa. The principal theme of Mr. Dushnyk's talk was the release of Metropolitan Joseph Slipy and the trial of Soviet agent E. Stashynsky in Karlsruhe. He also dwelt on the tasks and activities of the UCCA in the forthcoming year.

Also on Saturday, April 6, 1963 Dr. Jaroslav Padoch UCCA treasurer, took part as an official UCCA representative at the dinner in honor of Mr. Osvy Boydunyk, President of the Ukrainian National Rada, before his return to Europe. The farewell dinner was sponsored by the Organization for the Rebirth of Ukraine (ODWU), a member of the Ukrainian Congress Committee of America.

On Wednesday April 10, 1963, Walter Dushnyk spoke at the meeting of the Ukrainian Student Circle at Rutgers University in Newark, N. J. in which some 35 university students took part. Mr. Dushnyk's theme was "The Release of Metropolitan Slipy and

NEW YORK CITY. — In order to saturate the American university and college libraries with basic reference works on Ukraine, and in order to make readily available to as many students and scholars every possible Ukrainian publication, periodical and newspaper at their respective campus library, the Federation of Ukrainian Student Organizations of America (SUSTA) has announced a four-point program to all Ukrainian student leaders and to all local SUSTA chapters with instructions on how to achieve its Ukrainianological objectives and simultaneously observe fittingly United States National Library Week, April 21 to 27, 1963.

The four-point program for student leadership action, incorporated in Memorandum No. 14, advocates and encourages all Ukrainian student leaders to activate their student hromadas for the realization of the following four steps: First, it is requested that each Ukrainian Student Hromada investigate and survey all the university and college libraries in its locality for the express purpose of determining what maps, periodicals, newspapers and books on Ukraine are lacking as a basic library circulation and reference resource.

Second, it is urged that the Ukrainian Student Hromada request that the Order and Purchasing Departments of said libraries put a purchase order for maps, periodicals, newspapers and books which

Sports Scene. Ukrainian Nationals Top Hota, 4-1, Reach Eastern Semi-Finals

PHILADELPHIA. — The Ukrainian Nationals of Philadelphia, champion of the American Soccer League, reached the Eastern semi-finals in the American Challenge Cup competition by defeating Hota S.C. of the German-American Soccer League, 4-1, last Sunday here. The Nats are now scheduled to meet Guiliana S.C. of the German-American Soccer League in a two-game total goal home-and-home series for the Eastern finals. This inter-league match was reached when Guiliana beat Fall River S.C. of the American Soccer League, 1-0, in overtime play last Sunday in New York.

Many predictions were made as to the outcome of last Sunday's Nats-Hota game. The Nationals did not meet strong competition in the American League until they met with New York Ukrainians two weeks ago in an exhibition game which ended in a 1-1 tie. On the basis of this meeting some observers did not give the Philadelphia club much of a chance, since Hota had a good record against the New York Ukrainians.

In the March 23 issue of The Ukrainian Weekly, we said that the Ukrainian Nationals "still had to prove themselves against tougher competition." Well, this they did last Sunday against Hota. 3,000 On Hand More than 3,000 spectators turned out to see the Nats last Sunday and were rewarded for their entrance fee with some beautiful play. Center forward Ismael Ferreira scored the first Ukrainian goal at the 15th minute mark when he outmaneuvered the opposing net minder for an easy goal. Alex Ely, the outstanding Ukrainian Nationals left half back, received a pass from outside right Larry Oliver to put the Nats ahead, 2-0, at the end of the first half, with a long shot.
