UNA Branch 53 in Philadelphia Marks Anniversary

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — wishes of continued success in behalf of the UNA Supreme Assembly. Mr. Karbiwnyk, in his remarks, recalled the early stages of the society's history and the progress of the Branch over the past fifty years.

Appearing in the entertainment part of the program were: the SUMA Dancing Ensemble under the direction of Myroslaw Soltys, Miss Marianna Suchenko, last year's Miss Soyuzivka, and her sister Katherine. The young sisters sang several selections in Ukrainian.

Stephen Hawrysz, UNA Regional Organizer, acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet which was followed by a dance. Music was provided by Paul Malynowsky's orchestra from Chester, Pa.

UNA Anthracite District Committee Elects Officers

FRACKVILLE, Pa. — Michael Hentosh, secretary of Branch 305 of the Ukrainian National Association, was reelected president of the Anthracite Coal Region Committee at a meeting held here at St. Michael's Club on Sunday, October 23.

Stephen Hawrysz, Supreme Advisor and Regional Organizer of the UNA, was scheduled to be the main speaker but was unable to attend due to the sudden illness of his wife.

Other officers joining Mr. Hentosh on the District Committee are: Stephen Mazur, vice-president, Mrs. Helen Slovick, secretary, Adolph Slovick, treasurer.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Hentosh reviewed the progress of individual Branches and commended the secretaries for their cooperation in the membership drive which has been quite successful for the District.

Soprano, Harpist to Perform At UNWLA Branch 72 Musicales

Zirka Derlycia

Margaret Leshkiw

NEW YORK, N.Y. (CAS). — Two young aspiring artists will be the guest performers at the Fifth Annual Musicales sponsored by Branch 72 of the Ukrainian Women's League of America.

The event is scheduled to take place at the Ukrainian Institute of America here on Sunday, November 13, at 4:00 p.m.

The artists are Zirka Derlycia, soprano, and Margaret Leshkiw, harpist.

Miss Derlycia is presently studying music with Claudia Taranova and Eugene Krachno at the Ukrainian Music Institute in New York City. Her selections will include arias from the works of Lysenko, Barvinsky, Matiuk, Scariatti and Mozart. She will be accompanied by Juliana Mueller. Miss Leshkiw has studied harp with her mother, an accomplished harpist and music teacher, for over three years. Miss Leshkiw has won several awards in harp competition at Hunter College and the Music Educators League in New York. She has appeared successfully in New

John Panchuk Heads American Bar Association's Committee

DETROIT, Mich. — John Panchuk, noted Ukrainian civic leader who has gained recognition both as a legal expert and writer, was named chairman of the Committee on Health Insurance Law of the Section of Insurance, Negligence and Compensation of the American Bar Association.

The appointment is the latest in a series of honors bestowed on the Ukrainian lawyer whose activity in the Ukrainian American community goes back to the early years of the Ukrainian Youth League of North America, a national organization of which he is the former president.

At the present time, Mr. Panchuk is secretary, general counsel and a director of the Federal Life and Casualty Company with headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich.

Last year, Mr. Panchuk authored a book, "Shevchenko's Testament," which was published by the Svoboda Press. The book deals with one of Taras Shevchenko's most famous poems, with explanatory and interpretative analysis of the poet's verse. The 146-page work also contains a great deal of historical material on Ukraine, intended primarily for the English-language reader.

Mr. Panchuk, who was born in Manitoba of Ukrainian parents, studied at the University of Michigan where he obtained his law degree in 1928. A top-notch insurance lawyer, Mr. Panchuk has been associated with Federal Life and Casualty Company for 13 years.

Active in Ukrainian community affairs, Mr. Panchuk is the former president of the Ukrainian American Relief Committee and one of the founders of the Ukrainian Congress Committee of America. A member of the Ukrainian National Association, he is chairman of its By-Laws Committee.

Last year, Mr. Panchuk was elected Michigan state vice-president of the American Life Convention for the tenth consecutive year. He has also served as Assistant Attorney General of Michigan.

LUC National Board Announces Contest for Writers

FRACKVILLE, Pa. — The National Board of the League of Ukrainian Catholics, in an effort to stir some journalistic interest among Ukrainian Americans, is sponsoring a contest for an article to be published in the organization's periodical and a $50.00 cash award going to the winner.

In announcing the contest, the LUC Board did not make any restrictions as regards the topic of the article or the age and profession of the writer. All Ukrainians living in the United States and Canada are eligible to participate in the contest. Controversial questions need not be shunned, the announce-

The length of the article should not exceed 300 words and it must be submitted in triplicate. The style should be the writer's own, and he (or she) may write as many articles as he wishes. All articles must be submitted no later than Saturday, November 26 of this year.

The winner will be announced in the December issue of "L.U.C. Action" and in other Ukrainian publications. The award money will be mailed to the winner before Christmas.

All articles should be mailed to: The National Board of the League of Ukrainian Catholics, c/o Harry Postupack, R. D. #2, Tamaqua, Pa., 18252.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — The coming election in Pennsylvania is an important one in that there are two Ukrainians running for office on the Republican ticket.

Walter T. Darmopray is a candidate for the United States Congress from the 3rd Congressional District, and John Odezynsky is running for the Pennsylvania State Assembly. Both are from Philadelphia, although their vigorous participation in Ukrainian community affairs over the years has gained them national prominence and recognition. Consequently, the hopes of the vast Ukrainian community in this country ride on the success of their bid in the November 8th elections.

Mr. Darmopray, a lawyer by profession, is decidedly favored to win against the Democratic incumbent, according to latest public opinion polls. A vigorous campaigner, he has been endorsed by Philadelphia's evening Bulletin, one of the city's two major dailies.

The paper, voicing its preference editorially last week, said that Darmopray "would more actively represent the people in Congress."

UCCA, Quarterly Cited by Czechs Among Top U.S. Study Groups

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The Ukrainian Congress Committee of America and its publication, The Ukrainian Quarterly, are listed among 12 top American universities and institutes engaged in serious studies on the USSR and Communist-bloc countries, according to an article appearing recently in a periodical published by the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences in Prague.

American Kremlinologists

The article, written by Emil Sip, is titled, "The American 'Kremlinologists,' Their Activity and Institutes," and appeared in the No. 3 (1966) issue of Slovansky Prehled (Slavic Review), published six times annually by the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences. It was analyzed in the Radio Free Europe press survey recently.

The article is well written, despite the fact that its conclusions are understandably suited to the tune of the Communist Party.

In the opening paragraph, the author states that the United States is virtually flooded with literature dealing with all phases of life in the "socialist" countries. But he warns the reader immediately:

"In this connection, we do not refer to the pamphlets and other publications of ultra-Right organizations, intended for the cheapest kind of anti-Communist agitation and propaganda, which oversimplify and distort the facts in a crude fashion. We are concerned with the serious publications, the results of scientific work at universities and scientific institutes, produced by groups and individuals."

Serious Studies

Furthermore, the author stresses the worldwide interest.

Philadelphia Nationals Honored at Sports Banquet

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Philadelphia's Ukrainian Nationals, four-time soccer champions of the United States, were honored last Saturday, October 29, at a sports banquet sponsored by a committee of more than a dozen local organizations.

A number of high-ranking city officials and prominent sports figures paid tribute to the Ukrainian club's outstanding soccer team which has gained national and international recognition by virtue of its achievements on the field of play.

Greeting the team in behalf of the Ukrainian National Association was Joseph Lesawyer, Supreme President, who commended the players, members and leadership of the club for the fine record of achievements and the organizational skill displayed over the past ten years.

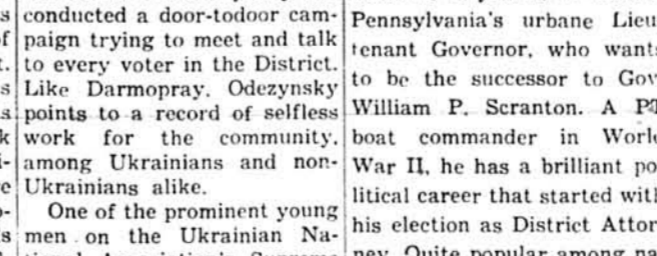

Mr. Lesawyer also conveyed greetings from UNA Vice-President Walter Sochan, Svoboda's sports editor, who was unable to attend the banquet due to previous commitments.

He also commended Mr. Yaroslav Tatomyr for up-to-date reporting of the club's matches in the Svoboda daily.

John Odezynsky, UNA Supreme Advisor and candidate for Pennsylvania's State Assembly, presented the club with checks for $100 and $50 from the UNA and the Association's Philadelphia District Committee, respectively.

The Nationals, many-times champions of the American Soccer League, are the current holders of the Dewar Trophy, emblematic of U.S. soccer supremacy. They had won the cup on three previous occasions, in 1960, 1961 and 1963.

Democrat, Mr. Odezynsky has conducted a door-to-door campaign trying to meet and talk to every voter in the District. Like Darmopray, Odezynsky points to a record of selfless work for the community, among Ukrainians and non-Ukrainians alike.

One of the prominent young men on the Ukrainian National Association's Supreme Assembly, he has an outstanding record as an organizer and dedicated civic leader. He is now in his third term as UNA's Supreme Advisor.

Acculturation of Ukrainians Discussed by Zarevo Students

NEW YORK, N.Y. (LK). — "Acculturation of Ukrainians in America" was the topic of a broad discussion at an academic evening sponsored by the Zarevo Society here last Saturday, October 29, at the Ukrainian Institute of America.

The event initiated the New York branch's season of academic programs which will deal with a great variety of topics and controversial issues.

The program was opened by Mrs. Anna Procyk, who acted as moderator during the presentation and subsequent discussion.

One of the two speakers was Myron B. Kuropas, assistant principal of Marshall Junior High School in Chicago and one of the Ukrainian community's most prominent leaders of the younger generation. An educator by profession, Mr. Kuropas is the author of a two-volume history of Ukraine in the English language. In addition to being Supreme Advisor of the Ukrainian National Association, he heads the organization's Education Research Committee.

Andriy Chrucky, the evening's second speaker, is a graduate of Rutgers University. A Philosophy major, he is currently working towards his Master's degree at the City College of New York. Mr. Chrucky is member of New York Zarevo's executive committee.

In their presentations the speakers delved into the theoretical and practical aspects of what was defined as "acculturation" of Ukrainians in America, pointing to the social and psychological ramifications of the process.

The questions raised by each of the two speakers generated a lively discussion that shed more light on the topic. Voicing their views were: Volodymyr Bakum, Oksana Bakum, Jaroslav Haywas, Lubomyr Kalynych, Anna Procyk, and others. The evening ended with an informal social tea.

Church Membership Wanes In Canada, Says Priest

SASKATOON, Sask. — The 14th Annual Convention of the Ukrainian Catholic Eparchy of Saskatchewan, held here recently, heard Brother Methodius, of St. Joseph's College in Yorkton, sound a grave warning regarding the future spiritual allegiance of the majority of Canadian Ukrainian Catholics, according to Progress Ukrainian Weekly.

He cited 1961 census figures which showed that, of 473,000 Ukrainians in Canada, only 189,000 were Catholics of the Ukrainian rite, while 80,000 considered themselves to be Catholics of the Latin rite. The remaining 200,000, he said, belonged to non-Catholic churches.

He also stated that 38 percent of Ukrainian Canadians marrying, married non-Ukrainians.

Brother Methodius said that, taking these statistics into consideration and the fact that 302,000 Ukrainians still consider Ukrainian to be their mother tongue, it seemed that the three major waves of Ukrainian immigrants to this country fulfilled their obligation of teaching their children Ukrainian better than they did their obligation of teaching their children the Catholic religion.

He urged those holding responsible positions in every parish, not to discourage younger people who cannot speak Ukrainian from taking an active part in parochial life. This shortcoming of the youth, he said, must not deter responsible people from doing their utmost, as missionaries, to bring Canadian Ukrainians into the Catholic Church.

Brother Methodius admitted the failings of Canadian Ukrainian youth in its general lack of desire to acquire an adequate knowledge of its cultural heritage, but also pointed out the fact that some of those who tend to reject youth because of its imperfections, are not without failings themselves.

H. A. Smith, Former Senator, Friend of Ukrainians, Dies

PRINCETON, N.J. — H. Alexander Smith, former Senator from New Jersey and one of Republican party's most influential advisers, died here last week at the age of 86.

An outspoken foe of Communism and an advocate of strong foreign policy, Mr. Smith showed great understanding of the Ukrainian problem and sympathized with the Ukrainian people in their aspirations for freedom and independence.

Since his election to the U.S. Senate in 1944, Mr. Smith concerned himself primarily with foreign affairs. A devoted follower of Woodrow Wilson's political philosophy, the late Senator readily admitted that the former Princeton University professor and President of the United States influenced his political thinking and formed his concept of public service.

Mr. Smith was a graduate of Princeton, and received his law degree from Columbia University in 1904. He started his political career rather late, but during his 15 years in the U.S. Senate he succeeded in rising to the position of great power and influence, particularly as regards America's foreign policy. After a trip to the Far East in 1949, Asia became his major interest. He was convinced the continued was falling to Communism because of the weakness of the United States policy.

His interest in foreign affairs and his advocacy of strong anti-Communist policy, coupled with his post-World War II relief activities in Europe, endeared him in the hearts of political refugees in this country and elsewhere in the free world.

He was held in high esteem by all nationality groups, particularly the Ukrainian people, who tendered a testimonial banquet for the late Senator in Newark, N.J., eight years ago.

Funeral services were held last Monday here. The body was interred at the Princeton Cemetery.

UNA Steps Up Drive

Last week's edition of The Ukrainian Weekly carried a full-page announcement of organizational meetings...

Being a fraternal society, the UNA relies on its membership to provide initiative, to generate ideas...

The extensive schedule of November meetings announced last week is precisely for that purpose.

The second objective is the step-up in the organization drive which must be intensified if the UNA is to adhere to its policy of expansion and progress.

Let's Cool It A Bit!

Ukrainians are said to be a temperamental people. This apparently innate proclivity is reflected as much in our character and history...

For some strange reason, soccer matches between our clubs provide occasions for such unrestrained displays of temperament which turn decent sports events into hideous spectacles of mob-like ferocity.

Healthy rivalry between clubs or teams is as desirable as competition itself. But it need not be carried to a point where the more irascible fans feel themselves called upon to settle the accounts with fists.

One can cheer a team without downgrading the other, especially with words that are not all too select.

Journalists In Parley

For the second time on this continent the respected fraternity of Ukrainian journalists is meeting today in Toronto. The first such conference that brought together Ukrainian professional journalists from both sides of the border...

An item of equally vast significance included on the conference's agenda is the adoption of a uniform 'code of ethics,' a set of working rules that will both guide and bind all members of the Ukrainian 'fourth estate.'

It is respected to say that there is no other domain which enjoys such freedom under the almost sacred guarantees of the American and Canadian constitutions as does the press.

'VALUE OF FREEDOM'

(2)

In our current preoccupation with Red China, we should not forget that it is Soviet Russia — that remains the most powerful and dangerous base of Communist strength.

America welcomes peaceful competition but in the Communist view, peaceful co-existence apparently must be on their terms.

DeGAULLE'S LATEST DISCOURSE

By CLARENCE A. MANNING

Ever since he became President of the Fifth Republic, President Charles DeGaulle has made it a practice to give what he calls a semiannual news interview.

Last week he gave one of these interviews. It contained little that was new or startling, but he was perceptibly more bitter toward all of his allies than he has been on previous occasions.

No Gold Purchase

Without going into details of his economic views, it is interesting to note that for the first time in many months the French treasury has not openly called upon the United States for a large gold shipment to settle American-French financial dealings.

In fact, some of the French communities where these bases existed have been marked by the large number of French civilians who have been discharged and by the lack of the normal American retail purchases from various local tradesmen.

Healthy rivalry between clubs or teams is as desirable as competition itself. But it need not be carried to a point where the more irascible fans feel themselves called upon to settle the accounts with fists.

One can cheer a team without downgrading the other, especially with words that are not all too select. Temperament is fine—that's what games are for. But unrestrained outbursts that lead to violence, well, let's cool it a bit!

Thus "we find it totally detestable that a small country should be bombed by a very big one, and we find it equally detestable that the soldiers of both sides should suffer losses."

It is respected to say that there is no other domain which enjoys such freedom under the almost sacred guarantees of the American and Canadian constitutions as does the press. To utilize this freedom in a responsible manner is both the journalist's duty and objective.

there can be no stable settlement in Asia without the consultation with Communist China and the withdrawal of American opposition to the admission of Communist China, without calling it that, into the United Nations.

Still Calls 'Russia'

In the same way he wholly overlooked the policies of the Soviet Union which he still calls Russia. He boasted of the success which he had on his visit to Russia, a visit that is to be reciprocated by visits to France of the leaders of the "Soviet Union."

He went on to say: "One knows also with what rapidity and to what extent the progress that has been achieved is marked, and one knows what truly wide and truly fruitful prospects are opened by the economic, cultural, technical and scientific agreements the two countries have concluded."

On the other hand, he spared no words in describing the exposed position of France in case of the acceleration of a cold, if not a hot, war, with its position on the very edge of the Atlantic. He spoke in terms that made it seem that he expected the descent of American troops on the French coast in that case, something that he wishes to avoid for he remembers World War II when he and the forces of Free France were forced to acquiesce in the British-American landing on the shores of Normandy.

DeGaulle had likewise bitter words for his other allies in the former NATO, especially Germany, which has tried consistently to build up special connections with the United States. "We concluded at her request a treaty that could have served as a basis for cooperation in the fields of politics, economy, culture and defense. It is not our doing if the preferential contacts ceaselessly developed by Bonn with Washington have deprived this French-German agreement of inspiration and substance."

He had similar criticism for the other Western nations that are in the Common Market and NATO, and defended his action of preventing British entrance into the Common Market on anything but his own terms.

Domestic Problems

Toward the end of his talk he outlined some of his ideas on the reorganization of both French industry and French labor. In their present form these seem unsatisfactory to both forces and it remains to be seen whether DeGaulle will succeed in effecting these reforms as he is proceeding to cut France loose from various international interrelationships which came into being after World War II.

'SPIRIT THAT WILL NEVER DIE'

(Remarks of the Hon. Leonard Farbstein, member of the U.S. Congress, upon receiving the Shevchenko Freedom Award during the Ninth Congress of Americans of Ukrainian Descent, in New York, October 8, 1966).

I want to thank all of you tonight for presenting me with the Shevchenko Freedom Award. Any award that bears the name of "freedom" honors its recipient. You award—because it represents a dream of freedom—that is so tenacious, yet so distant — is particularly precious.

The Jewish people, like the Ukrainian people, have throughout too much of their history found themselves the victim of some mighty outside oppression. They have fought for their freedom and died for it. They have planned for it and prayed for it. For centuries it remained with them in spirit, when physically they had no freedom at all.

We are very fortunate here in the United States to live and function in a land where liberty is total. It is Soviet tyranny which brings us here tonight, but it is American liberty which permits us to meet in this fertile American soil, we can perform our duty to our brethren across the ocean, without in any way compromising our loyalty to this land which is ours.

The great questionmark in all of DeGaulle's ideas is the future of Russia (USSR) in Asia. When he was in Moscow, he was taken to a missile centre in Kazakhstan. It does not seem to have impressed him, for he apparently still holds the belief that Europe ends at the Urals and he has never expressed any opinion about the area that is beyond. There is still a well-founded question as to whether he is expecting China in the course of the next decades to sweep westward to the Urals and recover all or most of the territory that was under the sway of the Mongols and Manchus during their great days.

DeGaulle's address shows the sincerity with which he holds to his most controversial ideas. Yet no observer can believe that the expulsion of the United States from almost any participation in Europe, as DeGaulle desires, will not produce a situation as foreign to DeGaulle's hopes as was the attack by Hitler in 1940 when France sought a definitely defensive position only to meet with disaster.

turies it remained with them in spirit, when physically they had no freedom at all. This was the heritage in which I was raised and which I understand. It is a heritage which parallels yours. That is why, I think, we feel so comfortable with each other. We both understand what it means to aspire to freedom.

At this very moment, the Soviet Union is tyrannizing your people and mine. It seeks them out for persecution. It denies them their religion. It deprives them of their national identity. It imposes upon them a grim Communist conformity that violates our deep instincts for liberty. The Communists think they will succeed in stamping out both Jewish and Ukrainian feelings of community distinction. We know they will not succeed.

We are very fortunate here in the United States to live and function in a land where liberty is total. It is Soviet tyranny which brings us here tonight, but it is American liberty which permits us to meet in this fertile American soil, we can perform our duty to our brethren across the ocean, without in any way compromising our loyalty to this land which is ours.

DeGaulle is confident that Russia in Europe will willingly agree to resume that role which she held in the eighteenth century, when the Russian tears first turned westward and adopted that French culture which was at its height at Versailles.

DeGaulle's address shows the sincerity with which he holds to his most controversial ideas. Yet no observer can believe that the expulsion of the United States from almost any participation in Europe, as DeGaulle desires, will not produce a situation as foreign to DeGaulle's hopes as was the attack by Hitler in 1940 when France sought a definitely defensive position only to meet with disaster.

UNA NOTES AND COMMENTS By THEODORE LUTWINIAK

Attend Branch Meetings

Members sometimes write to the main office of the Ukrainian National Association and complain about their local branch officers. Some of the letters erroneously refer to the branch officers as "agents" whom they criticize as "incompetent" and "negligent."

It is probably a fact that few, if any, of the complaining members attend the regular meetings of their branches. If they did, they would know that branch officers are elected to their positions by the members themselves.

Branch officers are elected at annual meetings, usually in December or January. Members have the tendency to reelect the same officers year after year in many of the branches.

years because of poor attendance, leaving the officers with no alternative but to carry on. This is unfortunate because the officers can perform their duties satisfactorily only as long as they are well. They get older year by year and the time comes when they are ailing. It is a fact that branch secretaries have kept records and signed papers while bedridden at home or hospitalized. And it is sad but true that more than a few died while in office, and to their number may be added branch presidents and treasurers.

A branch officer is bound to become incompetent and negligent if he is sick. He should be replaced. He knows this. But it is not easy to find a replacement, particularly if no meetings are held. If he has children at home he appeals to them for assistance. It is a fact that today there are branch secretaries who inherited (which is as good a word as any under the circumstances) their positions when their fathers passed away. Right now there are secretaries who are ailing who have no assistants and are doing the best they can. Every once in a while, a healthy or fairly healthy president or treasurer would replace an ailing secretary. The secretary is the key man for he is responsible for collections of dues and is the main contact with the UNA. Every branch must have a secretary and it is a fact that some branches have only this one functioning officer.

Members Decide

Why doesn't the UNA do something about all this? Well, it is up to the members of a branch to elect their own officers and, of course, the UNA cannot interfere as long as there is no complaint about a violation of the by-laws. In recent years, however, thanks to the formation of UNA District Committees, some of the problems within branches are being solved.

A district committee is composed of the officers of branches in a specific area and real progress has resulted from periodic meetings. Small branches lacking capable officers are being encouraged to merge with larger branches in the same localities. Special organizers are cooperating with the committees to bring new members into the branches. Efforts are being made to get members interested in attending branch meetings and participating in all activities and elections.

And we urge our readers to do likewise. For, if a branch is to have capable officers and replacements when needed, it must have successful meetings. A meeting can be successful only if a quorum is present. Since the annual elections of branch officers is not far off, the time to begin taking an active interest in the local branch is right now.

HEAR KOREAN PRIEST

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The Rev. Fr. Song, a Korean priest who is studying psychology at St. John's University here, was the guest speaker at the Communion Branch of the Metropolitan N.Y. Council of the League of Ukrainian Catholics.

The theme of Rev. Song's address was "Catholic Church in Korea." The event was held October 23 at the Holy Cross Ukrainian Catholic Church in Astoria, N. Y.

Next on the Council's calendar of events is a Fall Frolic to be held tonight at the Ukrainian National Home here.

HAVE YOU BROUGHT YOUR FRIEND OR RELATIVE TO THE UKRAINIAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION? IF NOT, DO SO AS SOON AS POSSIBLE!

to freely select between east and west.

We cannot afford to relax our guard in view of repeated exposures of espionage by personnel of Soviet and other Communist national embassies in this country.

These reprehensible activities are a forceful argument against the proposed consular treaty with the Soviet Union now awaiting Senate consideration.

For my part — and I know I speak for many of my colleagues in both parties — I am totally opposed to this treaty and I will fight it on the floor of the Senate. The provision that would grant unlimited exemption from criminal prosecution of consular personnel flies in the face of common sense, given the record of Russian spying in the United States.

The testimony of J. Edgar Hoover, the Director of our Federal Bureau of Investigation, is most convincing on this point. Under the proposed treaty, even if we caught a Red spy in the act, all we could do is expel him from the country. If the administration is foolish enough to call up this treaty, I believe it will be rejected by a large vote in the Senate.

Let me now share with you some observations on other matters which I know are of considerable interest to your organization.

I am in thorough agreement with many respected authorities in foreign affairs that the American response to Communist Cold War tactics has often been a negative or defensive reaction. Too often the initiative has been left to the Soviets or the Red Chinese or their puppets. This is why I believe the legislation to establish a freedom academy merits serious congressional consideration.

As you know, various versions of this legislation have been introduced in the past, and a bill sponsored by my colleague, Senator Mundt of South Dakota, passed the Senate in 1960. Similar legislation has been cleared by the House Un-American Activities Committee in this session of Congress, but there seems to be strong doubt that it will be acted upon this year. It is no secret that State Department opposition has always been the big stumbling block for this legislation. We have been losing many battles in the Cold War simply because we have not effectively mobilized the resources of our great nation in a purposeful but peaceful offensive in the global competition for the minds of men.

There is nothing wrong with the American ideal. No other nation in history has ever been so generous to the less fortunate or devoted so much of its resources to the improvement of conditions for other peoples. There is nothing wrong with the story we have to tell the world. We have the better product and our service to mankind is greater. What we must do is improve our merchandising. It is the United States that helps feed the world's hungry and helps cure the sick. It is the Soviet Union that cannot even feed her own people adequately. It is the United States that still stands as the safe refuge for all who seek political and religious freedom not the USSR or Red China. For 190 years we have continued to attract people from all corners of the earth who sought the chance for individual fulfillment in a climate of liberty.

Out of this diversity has come our strength. History does not record any similar rush of immigrants to the Soviet Union, despite the glowing Communist propaganda about how beautiful life is in the "worker's paradise."

A few days ago I read an Associated Press story dated Poltava in Ukraine. An American reporter had toured this rich farming region for miles and didn't see a single tractor or piece of modern farming equipment. There in the midst of one of the most fertile regions on earth, it still requires four workers to produce what one American farmer produces. We must continue to expose these myths about the Communist system and show the world the drab reality that lies behind the propaganda front.

It remains for us, the fortunate ones who enjoy the blessings of freedom in a rich land, to be ever mindful of those who yearn for the privileges we so often take for granted. We must do everything within our power to keep alive and nourish the hopes and aspirations of all those millions behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

I hope and pray the day will never come when the United States of America turns its back on the very principles of political self-determination and religious liberty which are the essence of our greatness. In the final analysis, our cause is just—and we must never weaken in our faith that justice will ultimately prevail in the world. America is great because America is good. (The End)

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller Affirms Friendship for Ukrainians

Among numerous political leaders appearing before the Ninth Congress of Americans of Ukrainian Descent, held in New York last month, was Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller shown here shaking hands with Dr. Lev E. Dobriansky, president of the UCCA, as Prof. Roman Smal-Stocki (right) and Joseph Lesawyer look on. Gov. Rockefeller, a strong supporter of self-determination and independence for all captive nations, is seeking a third term as Governor of the Empire State.

Wilentz is Hosted by All Americans Council

Representatives of various nationality groups comprising the All Americans Council heard Warren W. Wilentz, Democratic party's candidate for U.S. Senate from the State of New Jersey, expound his political philosophy at a luncheon-conference in Roselle, N. J., on Monday, October 24. When that play closed he then appeared as "King Henry II" in the play "Becket" in Memphis, Tenn. Subsequently, he tried out a new play with Franchot Tone, and this past summer he played the role of "Luther Billis" in the musical "South Pacific."
He appeared last in Cleveland two years ago as "Iago" in Shakespeare's "Othello" receiving high praise from the Cleveland drama critics.
The playing dates of "Richard III" in Cleveland are November 9 through 19. The play will be performed evenings only in the theatre building on the campus of Baldwin-Wallace College.

Ukrainian Miss Helps Launch Detroit Election Campaign

DETROIT, Mich. — Wearing the Ukrainian national costume, Miss Nadia Denysenko was one of 23 nationalities queens who appeared at a recent election Campaign Kick-off Dinner Dance at the Latin Quarter in Detroit, Mich., with Governor George Romney and U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin.
Over 700 guests dined and danced at the festive occasion sponsored by the Republican State Nationalities Council of Michigan, whose president, Carl Z. Millen, arranged the beautiful affair.
Against an opulent background of yellow chrysanthemums and softly wafting music, each nationalities queen was introduced in a beauty pageant hostess by WXYZ-TV personality Miss Rita Bell. Each queen was also congratulated by Governor Romney and Senator Griffin and their wives.
Senator Griffin in a major campaign statement, challenged the present administration to outline its policy regarding Captive Nations.
"Not since the Eisenhower Administration," he said, "have we known whether our U.S. policy toward those nations under Russo-Communist domination is just fuzzy or nonexistent at all. I strongly challenge and urge LBJ to make a policy, or make whatever policy he might have, clear to the peoples here and abroad."

Joseph Sabol Runs for Congress in Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Joseph Sabol, Jr., former Mayor of Duquesne, Pa., is making a strong bid for a seat in the U.S. Congress from the 20th Congressional District in Pennsylvania.
A longtime member of the Greek Catholic Union of the USA, a fraternal benefit society, Mr. Sabol is the former president of the society's Gymnastic Branch.
Himself of Slavic descent, Mr. Sabol is counting on the support of citizens of Slavic origin. A dynamic leader in community affairs, Mr. Sabol feels that peoples of Slavic origin and descent lack adequate political representation on the national level.

Sitch, Demaine, Thump Nats

Little David Demaine has struck again. The fast and tricky forward is quickly becoming a thorn in the side of the Ukrainian Nationals of Philadelphia. Last Sunday he scored the only goal in the game for Newark Sitch helping his new club wrest the lead from the Nats in the American Soccer League.

Nats' Nemesis

Demaine, obtained by Sitch from Hartford, seems to be making a career of scoring goals against the Philadelphia booters. Since arriving on the local soccer scene with the New York Ukrainians a year ago he has scored 5 goals against the Nats. He first was noticed when he scored a hat-trick against the Philadelphia side for the New York Club in Atlantic City in an exhibition match. Later, Demaine scored the only USC goal against the Nats in a Cup game in New York and, last Sunday, he did it again in regular league play.

The victory was the second for Sitch against the Philadelphia Nationals this season. The first was a 4-1 drubbing handed the U.S. Open Champions early in the season in Newark. Sitch is the only club in the American Soccer League still undefeated. They have been tied twice.

Demaine's goal came at the 42-minute mark of the first half when he converted a pass from Walter Czynowych from close range. Sitch outplayed the Nats in the first half of the rough game, but a good portion of the second half belonged to the defending U.S. champions.

Referee Tom Callaghan was forced to eject two players, one from each team, for fighting. Peter Short of Sitch and Julio Makarian of the Nats exchanged blows at the 25-minute mark and were promptly thrown out by Callaghan.

USC Downs Eintracht

New York Ukrainians continue to forge ahead in their quest of the German American Soccer League championship. Last Sunday the club defeated Eintracht, S. C., 1-0, at the Ukrainian Field, and are now tied with Hellenic for the lead on points with one game in hand.

USC has what is known as the best defensive line in the league. This is underlined by the fact that the New York booters have not been scored upon in the last four games. The problem for the club is scoring goals. Their victories were by small margins, which is too close for comfort.

Have Yet to Jell

At first glance it looks like a powerful forward line. But there is yet no understanding among players on the field. Although each of the players is good individually, they have not played together long enough. And, to correct that, the club has asked Gordon Bradley to take the reigns in his hands and coach the team. Gordon is an old pro with the club and knows his men well.

The only goal in last Sunday's game came at the 31-minute mark of the second half, when Wilson took a corner kick passing the ball to John Young who in turn passed it to Smethurst. Peter then scored from close range.

New York Ukrainian Sports Club announced that Richard Skora, outside left, failed to report for the game last Sunday without notifying the club. He called on Monday from Cleveland and said that he "decided to retire" from soccer for a while. New York Ukrainians promptly suspended the player for breach of contract.

South American champions, Penarol of Montevideo, Uruguay, won the World Club Soccer Cup by defeating Real Madrid of Spain in a two game series. Penarol won each game with a 2-0 score giving them a 4-0 aggregate.
