ARCHBISHOP VASYL VEYCHKOWSKY ARRIVES IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont. — Archbishop Vasyly Velychkowsky of the Ukrainian Catholic Church has arrived in Canada last Thursday, June 15, according to information received from Senator Paul Yuzk in Ottawa and the Rev. Semen Izyk from Winnipeg.

The Archbishop left Rome with Archbishop-Metropolitan Maxim Hermaniuk who was in the Holy City for the session of the Permanent Synod of the Ukrainian Catholic Church. The two prelates arrived in Winnipeg, Man., the seat of the Ukrainian Metropolitan see in Canada.

Established last year, during the Fifth Archiepiscopal Synod, the permanent body, under the leadership of Archbishop-Major Josyf Cardinal Slipyj, includes Archbishop Ivan Buchko, Archbishop Hermaniuk, Archbishop-Metropolitan Ambrose Senyshyn and Bishop Andrew Sapelak from Argentina.

According to information relayed by the Society for the Promotion of the Patriarchal System in the Ukrainian Catholic Church, the Permanent Synod devoted a great deal of attention to the perseverance of the persecuted.

DOBOSH, IN BELGIUM, TELLS OF ARREST, RELEASE BY REDS

BRUSSELS, Belgium.—Yaroslav Dobosh, the 24-year-old Ukrainian Belgian student who was arrested last January 5th by the Soviet authorities as he was leaving Ukraine after a two-week tour and was subsequently detained for five months, arrived in Belgium on Saturday, June 3, following his release by the KGB.

As reported last week, Dobosh, a Belgian citizen who heads the Ukrainian Youth Association (SUM) in Belgium, was released by the KGB after he made a public recantation at press conferences in Moscow and in Kiev.

The Belgian news media brought out extensive reports on Dobosh's "odyssey" Sunday night and Monday, June 3-4, said the press service which distributed excerpts from the reports to the Ukrainian press in the free world.

Not Bound

While admitting that he did make the statement at press conferences in Moscow on May 31 and in Kiev on June 2, Dobosh said that he does not feel bound by the pledge not to engage in "anti-Soviet activities."

in the session of the Permanent Synod, held June 4-8 in Rome. The Synod, the sources said, has accepted into its ranks Bishop Ivan Prashko of Australia.

Synod Concludes

Established last year, during the Fifth Archiepiscopal Synod, the permanent body, under the leadership of Archbishop-Major Josyf Cardinal Slipyj, includes Archbishop Ivan Buchko, Archbishop Hermaniuk, Archbishop-Metropolitan Ambrose Senyshyn and Bishop Andrew Sapelak from Argentina.

According to information relayed by the Society for the Promotion of the Patriarchal System in the Ukrainian Catholic Church, the Permanent Synod devoted a great deal of attention to the perseverance of the persecuted.

"I wish to continue defending human rights. The Russians forced me to 'self-criticism'. The cause of human rights is not better off because of that. For this reason I do not feel bound by the statement which I had to make," said Dobosh.

He described how he was arrested in Chop, a town on the border between Ukraine and Czechoslovakia, by two uniformed policemen and two plainclothesmen.

He said he did not realize that he was followed and that these meetings were kept under close surveillance by the KGB. He said it was during the interrogations in the Lviv jail that he was confronted with minute details of his encounters with Ukrainian dissidents.

Dobosh said that he was interrogated every day by a (Continued on p. 3)

Soyuzivka Primes For Season Opener July 1

lent accordionist, and the "Rushnychok" orchestra from Montreal, Canada. Wolodymyr Hentiaz will again lend his humor and versatility to the programs as master of ceremonies.

UNA BUILDING'S STEEL STRUCTURE IS COMPLETED

JERSEY CITY, N.J.—The flags of the United States, Ukraine, and Canada were hoisted to the highest beam Friday, June 9, at 3 p.m. in the traditional "topping out" ceremonies upon completion of steel construction of the Ukrainian National Association's 15-story skyscraper here.

A huge crane — one of two used by Elizabeth Iron Works for the past 29 working days to erect the steel frame — lifted the flags to the building's highest point where they were unfurled by the company's workers amid cheers of their fellow workers, UNA officers, city representatives, local bank executives, the contractor's representatives, and many onlookers along Montgomery and Green streets.

Shortly before, a green twig and the company's sign was hoisted by the "hard hats" atop a beam on the 15th floor of the steel structure, the industry's traditional way of celebrating the completion of work.

Elizabeth Iron Works employed 54 men to do the job, according to Irving Diamond, its executive vice-president. The general contractor for the building is Jos. Muscarelle, Inc. of Maywood, N.J.

The building's architects, Julian K. Jastremsky and Apollinare Osadca, escorted members of UNA Supreme Executive Committee up and through the third floor, the area which will be occupied by the UNA and the Svoboda Press when "Soyuz" moves its headquarters to the new premises. President Joseph Lesawyer, Vice-President John Teluk, Vice-President and Recording Secretary Walter Sochan, Treasurer Ulana Diachuk and Svoboda Editor-in-Chief Anthony Dragan were on hand for the "topping out" ceremonies.

Week-Editor Zenon Snylyk and editorial assistant George Wirt braved the 15-story walk up the stairs to photograph the flags held up by the workers and experience "first-hand" the steelworkers' daily travail.

Herman H. Suenholz, Executive Vice-President, and Francis Kane, Senior Vice-President, both of the neighboring First Jersey National Bank, and Philip C. Murray, Vice-President of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company were among the representatives of the local financial community witnessing the completion of this phase of construction.

Next the plans call for excavation (Continued on p. 4)

The 15-story steel frame, topped by a penthouse, is seen above moments before the "topping out" ceremonies.

THREE FLAGS UNFURLED: The American stars and stripes, flanked by the Canadian maple leaf and the Ukrainian blue and gold, are unfurled atop the highest steel beam of the UNA skyscraper. New UNA Plast Branch Founded in Yonkers

YONKERS, N.Y. — A new branch of the Ukrainian National Association was established in Yonkers, N.Y., by a group of local Plast activists.

At the time of the charter meeting, the Branch, which has adopted Plast's founder, the late Prof. Oleksandr Tysovsky-Drot, as its patron, had 15 members. In the next week, the total had increased to 20.

The first officers of the new Plast branch are as follows: Ostap Wynnyk, president, Michael Gudzwaty, secretary, Ivanka Hankewych, treasurer, Peter Kulnych, vice-president, and Dmytro Wozniak, assistant secretary.

The meeting was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Gudzwaty at their home, and it was attended by regional organizer Wasyly Orichowsky, himself a Plast member, who was prominently instrumental in founding the new Branch.

The Yonkers Branch is the eleventh Plast unit functioning within the UNA system in the U.S. and Canada. It has received number 205.

UPA: Memorable Anniversary

The Ukrainian Insurgent Army (UPA) has written one of the most glorious chapters in Ukraine's modern history. Organized in 1942 by the Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists, at a time when the red and the brown armies were ravaging Ukraine, this military formation took up the battlecry that had been muted since the War of Ukrainian Liberation.

UPA waged an unprecedented guerrilla warfare. Completely devoid of any external assistance, the Ukrainian guerrillas fought against two alien occupying forces, that of Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia, both locked in a deadly conflict that was World War II. Hunted by special elite troops of both enemies, the Ukrainian fighters used their knowledge of the terrain bold and imaginative tactics, above all, daring and courage to inflict telling damage on both the enemies' regulars and their oppressive administrative functionaries.

The success of this tactics and the total dedication of the fighters to the ideal of a free Ukraine is reflected in the fact that UPA survived long after war hostilities came to an end and even after the death of its Commander-in-Chief, Gen. Taras Chuprynka-Shukhevych in 1950. The struggle of UPA, in varied forms under varying conditions, lasted through 1956, as even the Soviet sources indicate.

That the fear of UPA's heroic legacy persists in the Red quarters is perhaps best illustrated by the fact that Gen. Chuprynka's son, a 17-year-old youth at the time of his father's death, is kept in jail, far away from his native Ukraine.

But neither jails, nor concentration camps, nor insane asylums can eradicate the beliefs that have sustained the Ukrainian people in their continued struggle for freedom. UPA was a stage in this struggle, which left a heroic legacy until the dream's ultimate consummation.

UCCA Congress

Although the XIth Congress of Americans of Ukrainian Descent is still some five months away, the preparations for this triennial assemblage of our organized community in the United States are already underway. UCCA's by-laws committee is meeting periodically to review the various proposals now being submitted by individuals and organizations for changes in the structure of our central representative body.

Unquestionably, every organization needs periodic updating and streamlining to fit the needs of the time. This is also the case with the UCCA. This does not mean, on the one hand, that the organization has not been functioning well until now, nor does it entail a wholesale turnover for the sake of change. What it does mean, as was aptly recognized by the UNA Supreme Assembly at its last annual meeting, is that there is need to improve the system of the UCCA and infuse young blood into its governing organs.

Recent years have witnessed a great upsurge in Ukrainian awareness among our young people. Events in Ukraine, changes in our own environment, and a growing appreciation of our spiritual heritage have aroused both the interest of our youth in the Ukrainian community and a deep sense of commitment to its continued well-being. They have become more active in our organized life, bringing new ideas, evolving new projects, and, above all, demonstrating a willingness to invest time and energy in implementing them.

It is only logical that these young people be given a voice, a responsibility in the governing organs of our central organization. It is this type of a "change" that is most timely and urgent.

"Nixon's Visit and Ukraine"

(The commentary below, written by Rusty McDonald, appeared in the June 1st issue of The Western Producer, a Canadian newspaper serving the country's northwest areas. Mr. McDonald writes a column for the paper).

The fickle spotlight of world attention now lights up Moscow where President Nixon confers with Soviet Union leaders and signs broad general agreements on such things as joint-space projects and arms limitation. But, as happened in the case of a recent Russian visit to Canada, many more important and pressing questions regarding human suffering and slavery will go unasked.

And yet there are signs that these very questions are fighting their way to the surface even in such a tightly closed society as that of the Soviet Union. On May 21 the London Sunday Telegraph reported that Soviet secret police (KGB) have arrested the sister of Ivan Svitlychny, a prominent Ukrainian literary critic who was himself jailed in January along with 10 other Ukrainian intellectuals, without trial. The arrest of Nadia Svitlychny in Kiev, the report says, is part of the current new repressive campaign against Ukrainian and other campaigners for more freedom in the Soviet Union.

Reports smuggled out from Soviet underground sources state that 50 or 60 other Ukrainians were arrested and charged with "defaming the Soviet state" in an attempt to stop the "samizdat" (underground writings circulated by hand, copied and relayed, some finding their way out to western newspapers).

Perhaps it is not world attention that is fickle, perhaps it is the western press because, for some unexplained reason, its attention and space is often devoted to suffering in other parts of the world and among other races and religions, while it ignores glaring international oppression in such captive nations as Ukraine.

For two generations Ukrainians have carried out their lone, and most often unreported, struggle to free themselves from the iron shackles of Russian imperialism. Is this the disaffection of a small political minority who want their party in power? Far from it. It is the struggle of 45,000,000 people, a nation the size of France, for freedom and identity for the second largest Slavic nation in the world.

It is not a "mere political struggle." Ukraine seeks freedom from any and all Russian domination, white, red, Communist or non-Communist.

A nation with ancient cultural traditions, Ukraine has produced intellectuals, artists, scientists, military leaders of great ability and, in a free atmosphere, of all political persuasions. Indeed, the once great University of Kiev contributed much to Russia's cultural advancement when that nation was largely barren and in need of fertilization.

The rest of the world often errs in thinking of USSR as one nation. Ukraine represents a large part... 18 percent... of total Soviet population. Another 32 percent of USSR is non-Russian. But the Ukrainians are potentially the most powerful.

Canada has reason to be aware of such potential through the vigorous and growing participation its citizens of Ukrainian descent have evinced in private and public life and in parties of all political persuasions.

There are signs that the winds of change are being felt elsewhere in USSR as reports of agitation and discontent seep through the heretofore impervious walls and curtains from Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Armenia, Georgia and from Greek Orthodox, Catholic, Baptist and Jewish and other sources.

It is doubtful if the spotlight on President Nixon and Soviet leaders will stray far enough to illuminate this seething protest, but it is there. No nation, no group suffered more or lost more people than Ukraine under oppression. Those who appeal to "world conscience" should never forget this for it is safe to say the Ukrainians never will... freedom is their supreme cause which they will never give up and sooner or later the world will have to face it.

UCCA Executive. (Continued from p. 1) our record with the Washington police, held in high esteem since the unveiling of the Shevchenko monument, was badly marred.

Preparations for the Captive Nations Week are in full swing, and many American civic and patriotic organizations are expressing their interest in participating.

The UCCA president also expressed his views on the format of the forthcoming XIth Congress of Americans of Ukrainian Descent, and suggested a number of American speakers for approval. After a discussion, the following decisions were unanimously adopted:

1) UCCA delegates to the Democratic National Convention are Joseph Lesawyer and Prof. Peter Stercho;

2) UCCA delegates to the Republican National Convention are Prof. Dobriansky and Atty. John H. Roberts;

3) UCCA representatives to the American Council for World Freedom at the WACL Conference in Mexico City are Dr. Dushnyak and I.M. Billinsky;

4) UCCA representatives-observers to the meeting of the Coordinating Committee for the Promotion of the Ukrainian Catholic Patriarchate, to be held in Chicago this weekend, are J. Lesawyer, I. Bazarko and Omelan Pleszke-wych.

The next meeting of the Executive Committee will take place on the first Friday following Labor Day in September.

Reader Wants CBS to Air Ukrainian Religious Service

(ZS) One of the most remarkable traits of the Ukrainian people is their religiosity. Their strong attachment to the Christian faith and their pride in the Ukrainian religious rite is an integral part of their national and cultural heritage.

Like many other features of the Ukrainian culture, it merits exposure. This is what Mr. Peter Kuchma, of Tappan, N.Y., felt when he was watching Columbia Broadcasting System's Sunday morning television program "The Way to Go."

The half-hour weekly program features Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religious services on an alternating basis.

Why Not?

"After watching various religions and rites — those of the Greeks, Armenians, Poles, Ethiopians, Copts and others — I began to wonder why can't our rite and our services — Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant, be presented on this program."

So Mr. Kuchma wrote a letter to Dr. Ormond Drake, who conducts the program, and apprised him of some facts about Ukrainians.

Dr. Drake replied that he was most interested "in your message about the Ukrainian community and would like to visit on this subject with an authority."

He said, however, that he does not choose the guests who appear on "The Way to Go."

"This is done by those in charge of radio and television for the Archdiocese of New York (for the Catholics) and by similar officers for the Council of Churches for the City of New York (Orthodox and Protestant) and the New York Board of Rabbis (for the Jews). I have absolutely nothing to say in the choices which they make," said Dr. Drake.

Write Letters

Moreover, says Mr. Kuchma, another program, "Lamp Unto My Feet," follows "The Way to Go" on CBS. He suggests that letters be written to CBS, asking that the station devote time to Ukrainian religious services as it does for many others.

Many of the Ukrainian community's activities center around churches and parishes. By exploring and exposing them, a television camera would offer its viewers an interesting insight into the life of one part of America's cultural mosaic.

"We should write and ask for this exposure," says Mr. Kuchma. We feel he has a point.

Archbishop Velychkowsky...

(Continued from p. 1) so-called Lviv synod, the question will be dealt with in a joint pastoral letter.

Regarding the question of "conferences" of the Ukrainian Catholic Episcopate, in reference to information published in the "Annuario Pontificio," Cardinal Josyf had earlier informed the Vatican Curia that the Ukrainian Catholic Church acts under the leadership of its Synod headed by the Archbishop-Major.

In conjunction with the International Eucharistic Congress, scheduled for February 18-25 in Melbourne, Australia, the Synod called on the clergy and faithful to take part "in the glorification of our Savior." The Synod also said that the Congress will offer an opportunity to demonstrate the "vitality of our Church despite persecution" and "let our brothers in Australia feel that we constitute one autonomous (pomisna) Church."

The Synod also discussed the problem of vocations, one of utmost importance in the Ukrainian Catholic Church, and asked the Bishops to study the question thoroughly in their eparchies and recommend steps to improve the situation.

No "Conferences" The Synod said that because of biased interpretation of the Brest Union and the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tourism: Reason vs. Emotion

Dear Editor:

In the "Letters to The Editor" section of May 6, 1972, there appeared a letter by Mr. Joseph Iwaniv suggesting a boycott of tours to Ukraine. According to him, Ukrainian citizens of Canada and the USA, by visiting Ukraine and spending money there, abet Russification. This money, he argues, could better be used for other purposes such as the Harvard Ukrainian Studies Program.

His arguments are sound, but I doubt if they have the power to convince people. He has touched upon a very sensitive issue and upon a basic human problem, i.e., the relationship between reason and emotion. Reason argues for a boycott, but emotion pulls in a different direction.

I'm sure that most Ukrainians, if not every Ukrainian, residing in Canada and the USA would like to see the land of his ancestors and/or of his birth. They would also like to see their friends, relatives and kinsmen. And I'm sure that their friends, relatives and kinsmen would be happy to see them.

It has been the experience of mankind that when reason and emotion are in conflict then emotion invariably wins out. Therefore, the idea of a boycott has merit, but logic will convince few, if any, to cancel their trips to Ukraine.

While tourism certainly does abet Russification, it simultaneously also contributes toward the degeneration of the Russian-Communist system in Ukraine. Ukrainian tourists visiting Ukraine can tell their relatives, friends and kinsmen about life in the free world and about the activities of Ukrainians in the free world.

Secondly, the effect on the tourist or visitor can be profound. Most people have returned from their visit with renewed love for the democratic system, and with renewed vigor to struggle for the liberation of their land of origin.

John Kolasky, for example, entered Ukraine as a dedicated Communist. His stay there convinced him of the bankruptcy of the Soviet system. Since his return from Ukraine, he has written two books exposing Russification in Ukraine.

Therefore, tourism has a double effect. On the one hand, it provides hard currency for the Russian imperialists. On the other hand, by acting as representatives of the West, tourists contribute toward degeneration of the Communist system. Which in the end will be more decisive is impossible to say. But the questions raised are serious and certainly deserve more thought and attention from the community, particularly from those who are contemplating a trip to Ukraine.

"Commentary" Prints...

(Continued from p. 1) faces: where is your conscience? Once again arrests are being conducted in the USSR. once again people are being thrown into jails, and yet you remain silent. Your governments want "friendly relations" with criminals who tyrannize over their own people. "We do not get involved in internal affairs." How convenient! Let them oppress and murder the Czechs, Hungarians, Ukrainians, Jews and dozens of other nations — your conscience sleeps.

Yet, all the Glesoses and Davises can shout and you hear them — the press and TV are at their beck and call.

Whereas, in the USSR, my friend, Yuriy Shukhevych has just been arrested and he can't shout — they've sealed his lips.

I sat with Yuriy in the same concentration camp, and he had been there for 20 years. And now he has been arrested again. Again the persecution of his family, again his children without bread.

The sole "crime" of the Ukrainian, Yuriy Shukhevych, consists in the fact that he is the son of General Shukhevych, who courageously fought against the enslavement of the Ukrainians. The sole "crime" of Yuriy consists in the fact that he loves his country — and in Ukraine one cannot be a Ukrainian. And so, after 20 years of prison, Yura is once again in jail.

He is silent. You won't hear him. But I, a Jew, who is proud of being a nationalist, appeal to you, citizens of the free world: Help Yuriy Shukhevych. Demand that the Soviet authorities let him go.

The "Commentary" also carried a recent photo of Yuriy Shukhevych, holding one of his two small children, and the following information about him:

Yuriy Shukhevych-Berezynsky. Born 1933. Son of Commander-in-Chief of the Ukrainian Insurgent Army, Roman Shukhevych. Sentenced in 1948 at the age of 15 to 10 years of imprisonment. On the day of his release, August 21, 1958, Shukhevych was re-arrested and shortly thereafter sentenced to a second 10-year term. Released on August 21, 1968 and denied the right to return to Ukraine for five years. Shukhevych was living with his wife and two small children in Nalchik, Kabardinian-Balkarian ASSR, at the time of his third arrest in the early months of 1972.

Avraam Shifrin's letter and the information about Yuriy Shukhevych was published in the "Commentary" through the efforts of the Committee for Defense of Soviet Political Prisoners, P.O. Box 1294, Woodhaven, N.Y. 11421.

In the words of the Report "a modern constitution for Canada is ultimately a restatement of our faith in ourselves and our country." Our faith in freedom and democracy, truth and justice, equality and brotherhood, cooperation and peace as an antidote to tyranny, hate, bigotry, prejudice, discrimination and war has been the strength that has brought about and maintained Canadian unity, which has produced progress, prosperity and general happiness for Canadian citizens.

This faith and work has built a great and dynamic Canadian nation. With continuing mutual understanding, goodwill, faith and adherence to these high principles we will build a new and better Canada. To facilitate the fulfilment of our worthy aspirations, a new modern constitution is vitally and urgently needed, for which this Report is an indispensable basis.

The End

New Canadian Constitution And the Rights of Ethnic Groups

By SEN. PAUL YUZYK

(Address delivered to the Senate of Canada in Ottawa on April 25, 1972).

"Moreover, where a Province confers a particular public right upon a language group, it would be appropriate for the Federal Government to provide a measure of financial assistance. By doing so, it would help the Provinces to provide a valuable public service to a group of citizens."

I am satisfied that the members of the Joint Parliamentary Committee on the Constitution of Canada in dealing with the problems of the non-British, non-French ethno-cultural groups were as objective, fair, understanding and sympathetic as could be expected of them. The Committee carefully studied the briefs and submissions of the organizations that represented these groups and in general adopted the recommendations which were consensual and practical, keeping the best interests of Canada in mind.

Personally, this Report gives me a great deal of deep satisfaction. It embodies most of what I have been striving and fighting for since I became a member of the Senate in February, 1963. Gaining recognition of language and cultural rights for the ethnic groups of the third element in the new Constitution of Canada is the fulfilment of my life dream and my steadfast endeavours which, I am pleased, received the backing of the leaders and the Senate body. This I gratefully acknowledge.

I have delivered several speeches in this chamber on the topic of the Canadian identity, multiculturalism and the rights of the ethnocultural groups. My maiden speech of March 3, 1964 was published as a separate pamphlet by the Queen's Printer with the title "Canada: A Multicultural Nation"; it was subsequently reprinted several times in pamphlet form and used frequently by ethnic groups in the hearings of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

On October 1, 1968 I drew the attention of the Senate to the concern of these groups about constitutional changes proposed at the Federal-Provincial Conferences. Then, with the support of an ad hoc committee of the Senate, consisting of Senators Maurice Lamontagne, David Crroll, Norman A. M. Mackenzie, James Gladstone and myself, with funds supplied by the Department of the Secretary of State and the Ontario Government and with the support of the Canadian Folk Arts Council, on December 13, 14 and 15, 1968, I convened the Thinkers' Conference on Cultural Rights, in which leading Canadian leaders and representatives of 20 leading ethnic groups participated together for the first time in Canada. The resolutions, rejecting the concept of biculturalism and endorsing official recognition of multiculturalism, the papers and reports were all sent to the Prime Minister of Canada and all the Premiers of the provinces, from most of whom came a favorable response. I gave a report of this important conference to the Senate on July 8, 1969 in the debate on the Official Languages Bill, in which I supported the Bill but urged that the non-English, non-French languages be recognized as Canadian languages. And finally, on February 17, 1970, following the launching of the Joint Parliamentary Committee on the Constitution of Canada, I delivered a lengthy address on constitutional revision in which I supplied statistics, a graph and a chart and in which I advocated that a bilingual and multicultural Canadian nation was the all-inclusive Canadian identity. Eight years ago this concept was scorned; today it has received general acceptance, thanks in a great measure to the young generation.

In conclusion, I would like to quote from my maiden speech of March 3, 1964 referring to the recognition of multiculturalism and the implementation of the principle of unity in continuing diversity.

"A great architect of Canada, Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier, under whose administration the Prairies were peopled by various groups of the third element, left, some 60 years ago, the following message for future generations:

one of those models of Gothic architecture which the hand of genius, guided by an unerring faith, has moulded into a harmonious whole. This cathedral is made of marble, oak and granite. It is the image of the nation I would like to see Canada become. For here, I want the marble to remain the marble; the granite to remain the granite; the oak to remain the oak; and out of all these elements I would build a nation great among the nations of the world.

It is significant that Prime Minister Trudeau used a part of this quotation when the present Government launched its new policy of multiculturalism on October 8, 1971. It is also significant that President Richard Nixon of the United States used this quotation when he recently addressed a joint session of the Senate and House of Commons in Ottawa on April 14, this year. President Nixon identified this as the Canadian way and exhorted us to remember these truths: "that variety can mean vitality — that diversity can be a force for progress."

Regardless of how we identify Canada — whether in terms of geography, governmental institutions, natural resources or human resources, such as ethnic and cultural communities, — these are not enough. A state is constituted paramountly by the collective will of the people to live, work and sacrifice together for the common good. If this will falters, then inevitably the nation falls.

We know from history and experience that the common strain binding Canadians together is a pervading goodwill towards persons and people other than their own and their love of this great land in its extensive travels throughout our vast country, the members of the Constitution Committee witnessed the vibrant spirit of Canadians of all backgrounds and therefore look with confidence to a better future for Canada.

In the words of the Report "a modern constitution for Canada is ultimately a restatement of our faith in ourselves and our country." Our faith in freedom and democracy, truth and justice, equality and brotherhood, cooperation and peace as an antidote to tyranny, hate, bigotry, prejudice, discrimination and war has been the strength that has brought about and maintained Canadian unity, which has produced progress, prosperity and general happiness for Canadian citizens.

Kwas Installed as Lions Club President

of Soyuzivka development 17 years ago. "Not only has my work provided satisfaction, but I am happy to belong to such a warm and friendly community," said Mr. Kwas who is rapidly recovering from a recent mishap when a roller struck him in the chest and cracked his chestbone. Mr. Kwas said that his project for the year as president of the Lions Club will be "to get a medical doctor for our community." The members greeted the announcement with applause. Presiding over the installation ceremonies was the Lions' past district governor Lewis Kirschner. Serving as toastmaster was David Karp, who contributed to the evening's success as social committee chairman. Opening the program and reviewing the Club's highlights of the past year was Howard A. Pomerantz, immediate past president. Greeting the guests was Arthur C. Chipp, while Lions international councillor J. Wilson Tinney welcomed all past presidents. Dr. Alfred Feldshuh made the presentation of the Club's "man of the year award," while Roland Riegel presided over ceremonies of inducting a new member. In addition to Mr. Kwas, among the Club's 12 officers for the 1972-73 term is Daniel Slobodian, former Soyuzivka co-manager and a long time associate of Mr. Kwas in running the UNA resort. Mr. Slobodian was chosen as a director for one year.

KERHONKSON, N. Y. — Walter Kwas, the energetic and widely popular manager of Soyuzivka, the equally popular UNA estate, became the 26th president of the Kerhonkson Lions Club when he was installed during the Club's annual banquet at Soyuzivka, Thursday, June 8. More than 100 "Lions" — mostly prominent civic and political leaders from communities in the Catskills region here — attended the fete and gave Mr. Kwas a rousing ovation as he officially assumed the post of the Club's president. On hand to congratulate Mr. Kwas was UNA Supreme President Joseph Lesawyer. "I am proud to be a Lion Club member," said Mr. Kwas in his remarks following the installation, "and am deeply honored to be a Lion Club president this year." The Soyuzivka manager recalled his arrival in the U.S. in 1949 as a refugee from Ukraine, his initial years in this country, his work with the UNA and the early stages

Dobosh. . .

(Concluded from p. 1) major. While in jail, he was allowed to read the Russian newspaper "Pravda" and "Pravda Ukrainy." He was not permitted to write to anybody. Once a day he was allowed a one-hour walk in the jail's yard, an area of some 24 square feet surrounded by a 12-foot wall, topped with barbed wire. He was held incommunicado until February 21st when he was taken to Moscow to meet two officials of the Belgian Embassy. He said they told him not to say anything to avoid self-incrimination. There were three such meetings, including one with the Belgian Ambassador, but Dobosh said they were insignificant.

Writes Letter

On May 22nd or 23rd, two Soviet officers visited Dobosh and told him that efforts are being made in Belgium to secure his release, but that "nothing will come of them." A few days later he was told to write a petition to the Supreme Soviet of the USSR and tell of his activities in Ukraine, admit his guilt and promise not to engage in any anti-Soviet activities if he is allowed to return to the West.

"They threatened me by showing documents of Ukrainian nationalists who were sentenced to long terms for spying and sent to Siberia. They also showed documents of those who admitted their guilt and were released. I finally wrote the letter."

Dobosh related that on May 30th a colonel from Moscow came to Lviv and told him that his letter had been received in Moscow but that no one believed him and that he would get at least ten years in jail. But he said that there was one last resort left for Dobosh — to make a public recantation at a press conference.

"I saw no other recourse and agreed," said Dobosh.

He read his statement to some 20 journalists in Moscow on May 31st and again in Kiev where there were more than 50 journalists on June 2nd. After the press conference in Kiev, he said he was taken to a small hotel outside the city limits.

After some two hours had elapsed, Dobosh said he was visited by two colonels who told him that "the Soviet Union maintains good relations with Belgium and wishes to do so in the future. We shall take you outside the borders of our country."

Threats

Dobosh said he thought it was some new trick. After some more threats, said Dobosh, the officers told him that "no one should try to visit Ukraine in such a manner. . . your successors will not be set free."

He was subsequently put on a plane which brought him to Brussels.

Dobosh admitted that while leaving Ukraine, he carried in his suitcase two photos—one of a Ukrainian intellectual now in Siberia and the other of a persecuted writer. He also had a book, first published and later barred, of a noted literary critic and microfilmed manuscript of a book on poetic rhymes by an unidentified author incarcerated in Siberia.

Dobosh also said that contrary to rumors in Belgium, he did not intend to visit his relatives in Ukraine.

NAMES OMITTED

In last week's published recommendations and resolutions, adopted by the UNA Supreme Assembly at its annual meeting May 22-26, 1972, at Soyuzivka, the names of the women's committee members were left out through an error during the makeup of the paper. Members of said committee are: Mary Dushnyk, chairman, Maria Demydchuk-Chuchman, secretary, Ulana Diachuk, Anna Haras, Anna Chopek, members. Also, the name of Walter Didyk, former Supreme Advisor, was omitted from the sports committee. We apologize for the omission. — Ed.

Tennis Tournament Season At Soyuzivka Opens July 1st

JERSEY CITY, N.J.—The curtain goes up July 1st on the Ukrainian tennis tournament season at Soyuzivka with the Eastern championships at stake first.

The first of four big tournaments staged at the UNA resort each year, the July 1-2 Easterns are sponsored by the Association of Ukrainian American Sports Clubs (SUAST-East) and organized by the Carpathian Ski Club (KLC) of New York. Competition is open in men's, women's, senior men's and junior divisions.

Last year's winner in the men's division was George Sawchak ("Tryzub" Philadelphia), who thus got a second leg on the Roman Slobodian trophy, Bohdan Stopynyk (Soyuzivka) in the senior men's division, and Mrs. Joan Shyan (KLC Boston) in the women's division.

Doubles Next

The second tournament of the season, according to a revamped schedule, is the doubles competition for Soyuzivka trophies August 12-13. Then follow the national championships over the Labor Day weekend, and the "UNA 16 and 8 Invitational" September 16-17.

The Carpathian Ski Club will hold a club tourney for the Dr. Y. Rozankowsky trophy either late in September or early in October.

Among other changes worthy of note to the players is the starting time of all singles tournaments: it has been advanced to 8 a.m. from the previous 9 a.m. to allow more playing time.

Tie-breakers will be used in the initial rounds up to the quarterfinals, again to eliminate protracted matches in the early rounds.

Last year's format of the national championships in men's division is being retained, meaning that preliminary rounds will be played on Friday, September 1, until the number of unseeded players reaches 16. They will then join the 16 seeded men in matches on Saturday.

A consolation tourney will be added this year for the players who are eliminated on Friday.

One Court Added

Soyuzivka's most significant innovation is a complete revamping of the upper level of courts. The adjoining basketball court has been transferred elsewhere (just below the courts, above the soccer field), the added space allowing for the construction of three courts. This increases Soyuzivka's total to six courts.

Preceding the opening of the tournament season is a tennis camp for youths aged 12 to 18, starting June 24 through June 30. The camp will be run by George Sawchak and Zenon Snylyk and applications are being still accepted by Soyuzivka management. Boys and girls wishing to remain through the July 1-2 weekend at Soyuzivka and take part in the Eastern tournament should indicate their preference while registering for the tennis camp.

Kuban Cossacks Cited, Release LP Record

LONDON, England.—Happily coinciding with the release of their first-long-playing record, one of a long-planned series, comes the news that the Kuban Cossacks (Ukrainian representatives in the 1972 International Television Festival at Monte Carlo) have been honored by the award of the Cross of Symon Petliura.

This distinction, conferred by the President of the Ukrainian National Republic in exile, is the second highest military decoration it is with in the power of the Republic to bestow. It is almost unprecedented for it to go to a civilian, since it is associated with one of Ukraine's great heroes who was treacherously assassinated in Paris in 1926.

The Cross comes to the Kuban Cossacks for the great contribution they have made to the propagation of their country's culture in almost every corner of the world.

Mike Mazurki to Attend Sports Rally in Jersey

By WILLIAM M. DANKO

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — The Ukrainian Youth Committee of Jersey City, N.J., will host the National Ukrainian Youth Sports Rally next weekend, June 23, 24, 25 and inquiries give every reason to expect a large crowd at the rally. Even though there have been some obvious absences, the rally committee has heard from 15 states and Canada.

The sports rally will encompass the following athletic events: basketball (Juniors-14 to 17 years of age, and Seniors-18 years and over), bowling, golf, soccer, softball and volleyball. Entries from Ukrainian groups and organizations can still be filed with the rally committee at: National Ukrainian Youth Sports Rally P.O. Box 7 BBB, Hudson City Station, Jersey City, N.J. 07307.

Proceeds to Harvard

The sports rally committee had decided that the proceeds of the rally will go to the Ukrainian Studies Chair Fund (USCF).

The sports rally will begin with registration and bowling on Friday evening, with a welcome social, featuring the music of Leo Niesiewicz and his Ukrainian Harmony Tones orchestra, to follow.

Saturday morning, registration will continue, while all the sports activities will begin, concluding hopefully in time for the victory awards banquet to be held at the Ukrainian Community Center at 90 Fleet St. in Jersey City on Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m. Tickets can be obtained from chairman Al Danko and his entire 30-member committee.

Ukrainian Celebrities

A number of Ukrainian celebrities have been contacted by the rally committee. Actor Mike Mazurki, just back from Alaska where he starred as the "Mad Trapper of the Yukon," will definitely appear at the rally. Jack Palance, just back from Europe where he made a couple of films and is now scheduled to do the back-up color commentary to Mel Allen's blow-by-blow broadcasting of the Cassius Clay-Jerry Quarry and Bob Foster-Mike Quarry boxing doubleheader on closed circuit TV from Las Vegas on June 27, has been contacted and may be at the rally depending on his schedule.

Actor-dancer-singer-director-choreographer Peter (Shelepluk) Shelley, who is now prepping for the Ukrainian festivals in Dauphin, Canada, and Munich, Germany, also indicated he would be present depending upon his schedule. Miss Marsha Metrisko, of the famed beauty contest sisters, is starring in the Women's Lib film directed by former actor Jackie Cooper and co-starring Stella Stevens, Jacqueline Bisset, and Steve Lawrence, "Stand Up and be Counted." Miss Metrisko is in the east at present promoting the film, and there is a possibility of seeing this young Ukrainian beauty at the rally. Speaking of beauty, singer Melanie and Charles (Buchinsky) Bronson, the former being tops in the folk music field and the latter is the top box-office attraction in Europe, have also been contacted to appear. In sports, John Chuy, (6:4-250 lbs) who will soon be going to Canada to play for the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Professional Football League, has also promised to appear.
