Remains of Bishop John Stock Laid to Rest in St. Clair

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Hundreds of clergy and thousands of faithful filled to overflowing the Ukrainian Catholic Cathedral of Immaculate Conception here Monday, July 3, for the funeral services of the late John Stock, Auxiliary Bishop of the Philadelphia Archeparchy, who was killed in a car crash Thursday, June 29.

Auxiliary Bishop John Stock

Metropolitan Officials
Archbishop-Metropolitan Ambrose Senyshyn officiated at the funeral services, assisted by Bishops Joseph M. Schmondiuk of Stamford, Bishop Jaroslaw Gabro of Chicago, and Auxiliary Bishop Basil H. Losten.

Born in Blackwood, Pa., the late Bishop was ordained into priesthood in 1943 after completing his theological studies. He was consecrated Auxiliary Bishop in Philadelphia on May 25, 1971, following his appointment by the Holy See, which had caused a sharp controversy in the Ukrainian Catholic community. Some Ukrainian Catholics, while not objecting to the choice of Bishop Stock, were opposed to the manner of his appointment.

Three Ukrainian Orthodox priests were designated by Metropolitan Matsylaw for the funeral: Protopresbyter Artemy Selepyna, head of the Consistory, Protopresbyter Stephen Bilak, and Protopresbyter Joseph Kreta.

Bishop Stock enjoyed a great deal of respect among all Ukrainian Catholics. His pastoral work in this country and particularly his assistance to the Ukrainian refugees in Europe in the immediate post World War II period, endeared him in the hearts of thousands.

Thousands of faithful paid their last respects to the late Bishop during the weekend as his remains reposed in an open coffin in the Cathedral. A Requiem service was offered Sunday, July 2, with the Ukrainian Catholic prelates officiating.

A cross section of the entire Ukrainian community was represented at the funeral services by high ranking officers and leaders. Among them was a large delegation of UNA officers, headed by Supreme President Joseph Lesawyer. Others in the representation on Monday were: Vice-President John Teluk, Auditor Ivan Skalczuk and Advisor and Assistant to the Secretary Stepan Hawrysz. Messrs. Lesawyer and Teluk accompanied the late Bishop's remains to his native St. Clair, Pa., where the last rites were held prior to interment at the local cemetery near the graves of his parents.

The late Bishop Stock, who would have been 54 year old on July 5th, was killed at approximately 1 a.m. Thursday, June 29, when his 1970 Oldsmobile apparently plowed into a truck which only seconds before was involved in a crash with another heavy van on the New Jersey Turnpike near Bordentown, N.J. The Bishop, who was traveling alone, was returning from a visit in Connecticut. He must have noticed the truck pile-up across the three lanes, since there were tire marks for some 130 feet along the highway. He was pronounced dead on arrival at one of the nearby hospitals.

Representing the UNA at the Requiem services Sunday were Vice-President and Recording Secretary Walter Sochan, Dr. Skalczuk and Svoboda Editor-in-Chief Anthony Dragan. The late Bishop was a long-time member of the UNA.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Wolodymyr Hentisz, who was assisted by

REPRESENTATIVES OF UKRAINIAN FRATERNALS MEET IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — A conference of officers of Ukrainian fraternal benefit societies — the fourth such meeting since 1966 — was held here Tuesday, June 27, at the Carlton Hotel, with the Ukrainian National Aid Association of America hosting the parley.

Inclement weather — rains and floods — prevented the representatives of the Ukrainian Workingmen's Association from attending this meeting.

Opening the session was Wolodymyr Masur, the hosting Association's President, who also chaired the day-long session, while Ananiy Nykonchuk, UNAAA's Secretary, kept the minutes. Delivering the invocation was Msgr. Myroslaw Charyna, President of the Providence Association of Ukrainian Catholics.

Three Addresses

Three principal addresses on various phases and facets of Ukrainian fraternal life were delivered in the course of the session: Prof. John Teluk, Vice-President of the Ukrainian National Association, spoke on the "Role of Economic Institutions in the Ukrainian Community"; Roman Krawciw, Financial Secretary of the Providence Association, discussed "Future Perspectives of Ukrainian Fraternals"; and Mr. Nykonchuk dealt with the problem of "Training Fraternal Workers."

The addresses, based on source material and statistical data, elicited a lively discussion, with the following officers participating: Msgr. Charyna, Dr. Jaroslaw Pa-doch, UNA Secretary, Stephen Sprynsky, Dr. Alexander Bilyk, Michael Maynosh, Lew Futala and Mr. Krawciw. The speakers provided answers to questions posed.

The forthcoming Congress of Americans of Ukrainian Descent, scheduled for October this year, was the subject of discussion as part of the meeting's agenda. Mr. Sprynsky, who is UCCA secretary, presented some of the problems relevant to the congress, while Msgr. Charyna and Mr. Futala, both UCCA vice-presidents, offered supplementary remarks. Elaborating on the various issues in the course of the discussion were: Prof. Teluk, Mr. Krawciw and Dr. Bilyk.

Resolutions

A resolutions committee, consisting of Dr. Bilyk, Dr. Padoch and Mr. Futala, prepared a set of resolutions which will be made public after ratification by all four fraternals.

Among other officers of the Ukrainian fraternals taking part in the session were: UNA Supreme Advisor Andrew Jula and Pittsburgh District chairman Charles Sachko; Providence Advisor Michael Maynosh; UNAAA honorary president Wasyl Shabatara, Vice-President Mrs. Rosalia Sykuta, Treasurer Mrs. Anna Krupa, "Ukrainian National Word" editor Paul Marenc, and auditing committee secretary Wolodymyr Kowal.

The conference decided to meet again in 1973, with the Providence Association hosting the parley.

Broker Jailed For Bilking Couple

CHICAGO, Ill. — A former real estate broker here was sentenced to two years in federal prison by a U.S. District Court, followed by four years on probation for defrauding a Ukrainian couple of $9,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shydohub, a Ukrainian immigrant couple, told broker Marvin Pollack to sell two buildings Shydohub owned after being cautioned that the neighborhoods were "changing."

Testimony in court revealed that Pollack secretly bought the houses himself and then resold them for $9,000 more than he told the Shydohubs he could get.

Probation is conditional upon the broker returning the $9,000 to the couple.

UNA DESIGNATES $10,000 TO HELP FLOOD VICTIMS BRANCHES, MEMBERS ARE URGED TO CONTRIBUTE TO RELIEF FUND

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — The Supreme Executive Committee of the Ukrainian National Association, after an on the spot investigation by President Joseph Lesawyer and assistant to the Secretary Stepan Hawrysz, has designated $10,000 to help the Ukrainian victims of the recent floods in Pennsylvania. Other affected areas, notably Elmira, N.Y., are also being investigated.

The Committee immediately designated $10,000 for assistance to the flood victims and established a UNA Flood Relief Fund to alleviate the plight of UNA members in the area.

Children, aged 6-12, from families affected by floods can attend children's camps at Soyuzivka free of charge, said the Committee.

Thousands of Ukrainians and hundreds of UNA members in the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are virtually homeless after overflow, ravaging waters of the Susquehanna River flooded the Wyoming Valley, extending from Scranton to Shickshinny.

On Thursday, July 8, Mr. Lesawyer and Mr. Hawrysz, acting on information sent in by District chairman Roman Diakiw, traveled to Wilkes-Barre, Kingston and the surrounding communities, visiting local UNA officers and the homes of Ukrainian families to assess the damage and inquire on the immediate needs.

UNA's Wilkes-Barre District is comprised of nine Branches with over 700 members. The region has been pronounced a "disaster area" and relief is being channeled through federal and state agencies as well as private organizations. Still, only minimal needs are being met.

The UNA officers established that medical supplies and construction materials are most urgently needed at this time, and to meet this contingency the UNA will provide some of its own funds.

Attorney Challenges State Delegation

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — After an unsuccessful effort to secure proper representation for ethnic groups as delegates to the National Democratic Convention, John S. Gonas, a South Bend attorney of Ukrainian descent, has filed a protest with the Democratic National Credential Committee to unseat the Indiana delegation.

Press Coverage

As reported by Ed Perkins in the South Bend Tribune on June 25, Mr. Gonas challenged the 3rd Indiana Congressional District delegation elected at the Democratic State Convention in Indianapolis on the grounds that it does not comply with the McGovern Commission requirements for representation of ethnic groups.

No Ethnic Representation

Mr. Gonas claims that persons of Slavic and Hungarian descent, who make up the majority of the Democrats in the district, had no representatives selected to go to the convention in Miami Beach in July. He has asked that the five delegates elected at the state convention be unseated and that the ethnic groups be given proper representation.

Mr. Gonas is a retired chief justice of the Indiana Appellate Court and has served in other state and local offices.

while calling on Branches and individual members to help in this recovery effort.

Messrs. Lesawyer and Hawrysz met with Mr. Diakiw and the following local officers: Mrs. Katherine Lukach, secretary of Branch 282, Mrs. Martha Turchin, secretary of Branch 278, William Waligun, secretary of Branch 99, John Hrencasin, secretary of Branch 223, and Mrs. Helen Hollock, assistant secretary of Branch 169. They held extensive talks on the situation in the area and later traveled across the river to Kingston, where the supreme officers met with Mrs. Mildred Dobranski, president of Branch 29.

Air Appeal

After acquainting themselves with the situation, Messrs. Lesawyer, Hawrysz and Diakiw traveled to Scranton, Pa., where they visited the home of District Committee chairman John Holyk and prepared an appeal to UNA'ers and all other Ukrainians, which was broadcast over station WICK last Saturday, July 10.

The appeal informed local Ukrainians of the UNA fact-finding mission and urged members to contact their Branch secretaries "without delay to make known their plight."

"As soon as our survey is completed our Supreme Executive Committee will designate funds to be distributed to our members in need. Every effort will be made to provide some assistance with a minimum of delay," said Mr. Lesawyer who also repeated the message in Ukrainian.

The Executive Committee met in a special session Friday, July 9, and in addition to designating $10,000 for immediate relief, called on Branches and members to contribute to the UNA Flood Relief Fund and thus provide the urgently needed assistance to the victims.

Ukrainian National Association Scholarship Winners

"With Eyes Toward Youth"

These pages offer the clearest and most meaningful application of what was UNA's motto during its Diamond Jubilee year in 1969 and has subsequently become a bedrock of its policy. Thirty-six Ukrainian students are worthy recipients of UNA scholarships in the total amount of $10,000. Twenty-eight others, with equally excellent records of scholastic accomplishment, have been given honorable mention.

The total amount appropriated for UNA's academic youth is the highest since the implementation of the scholarship program in 1964. Acting on the recommendation of the 1970 Convention, the Supreme Assembly of the UNA proposed $10,000 for scholarships at its first full post-convention meeting in May of 1971, effective in the academic year 1972-73. The prime motivation in the Assembly's and the Executive Committee's decision was to help needy and able students attain higher education and thus increase the ranks of our community's professional stratum. Moreover, since one of the decisive criteria in selecting the recipients is their participation in Ukrainian community life, a UNA scholarship constitutes a recognition of a youth's involvement and his or her future contribution to the progress and well-being of our organization, our community and our people.

Unquestionably, the scholarship awards are yet another example of UNA's service to our community. It reflects the strength of the organization as much as its concern for its members and for all of our people. That strength and that service could be multiplied many times. For years UNA has been the prime example of organized strength at work. Whatever it has accomplished, it owes to its principal power base—its membership. To increase that power base and thus multiply UNA's services—such as the scholarship program—should be the desire and the responsibility of every Ukrainian.

Women's Group Visits TV Station

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A series of misreportings on a Philadelphia television news program prompted a group of women from the Ukrainian Women's League of America to visit the television station and offer information on rectifying the misrepresentation of Ukrainians in the news.

On June 13 a delegation from UNWLA Branches 90 and 98 in Philadelphia visited television station WCAU and met with Mr. Joe Daley, associate producer of Channel 10 news to discuss Ukrainian history, language and culture and examine current unrest in Ukraine. The group, comprised of Natalia Danylenko and Christyna Senyk of the 90th Branch and Patricia Sawchak, Christina Perfeky and Lania O'Neill of the 98th Branch of the UNWLA, prepared for the interview with the assistance of Dr. George Perfeky of La Salle College, who obtained research books, and provided background material.

Mrs. Sawchak opened the discussion by presenting Mr. Daley with "pysanky" and ceramics. A brief historical sketch of the Kievan Kingdom was offered by Mrs. Perfeky, which led to a discussion of present-day political dissension and Russification in Ukraine.

Mr. Daley suggested the creation of a widely publicized local Ukrainian information center to provide accurate information on all areas of Ukrainian news and disseminate such materials.

In concluding the visit the women presented Mr. Daley with an extensive bibliography of books in English, the book "Internationalism or Russification?" by Ivan Dzyuba, and a list of resource people to call to verify news items relating to Ukrainian affairs.

Jackiw, Kuchynsky Win Eastern Tennis Titles

CHAYKIVSKY TAKES JUNIOR HONORS

KERHONKSON, N. Y. Zynovij Jackiw, the 1968 and 1969 national champion and last year's doubles winner, launched his comeback for the 1972 honors by winning the year's first tennis tournament at Soyuzivka — the SUAST-East championship—played at the UNA resort's refurbished courts July 1-2.

comeback, moved ferociously for the kill. His confidence regained, he played out his full repertoire of spinning serves, crisp volleys and booming overheads that gave Sawchak no chance. At 0-3, with the blur of the ball on the would-be match-winner still in his mind, Sawchak shook Jackiw's hand.

In the semis, Kuchynsky defeated Dr. R. Rak (KLK) 6-0, 6-0, while Dr. Huk just beat out a stubborn Andrew Honeczarenko ("Sitch"), 6-4 7-5.

Near Yet Far

The speedy KLK southpaw from Utica, N.Y., who had returned from a two-year army hitch early last summer, defeated George Sawchak ("Tryzub" Philadelphia), last year's winner, 3-6, 7-5, 6-0, in the men's finals. With Jackiw ahead 3-0 in the third set, Sawchak, who last year won three tournaments and was the finalist in the nationals, conceded the match as he was no longer able to muster the concentration that had brought him to the threshold of victory in the second set.

No Women

There were no entries in the women's division, a group that had five competitors last year, with Joan Shyan winning.

Second For Kuchynsky

In the seven-entry senior men's division — considerably below par as compared to previous years — Borys Kuchynsky ("Chornomorska Sitch" Newark) took the measure of his clumbmate, Dr. Volodymyr Huk, 6-4, 6-4, in a closely played match to win the title. For the likable Kuchynsky, it was the second tournament win in the last two years over the seemingly indestructible doctor. Much like last year in the Soyuzivka open, Kuchynsky relied on his retrieving to win telling points.

Playing smart, inspired tennis, changing pace and spin on the ball, mixing lobs with angled passing shots, Sawchak dominated the first set, breaking Jackiw's service in the seventh and ninth games to win 6-3.

He got what seemed like a deciding break in the seventh game of the second set and held his own serve to go ahead 5-3. But Jackiw refused to fold. He held his own serve and had two break points on Philadelphia finally got to his Sawchak's serve before the his match-point.

He came to the net, volleyed to Jackiw's backhand and then watched a passing shot sail by him. Unable to turn around in time to make a call on the ball, Sawchak hesitated as a voice from among the spectators called "in." Visibly upset, Sawchak nevertheless remained true to the golden rule of tennis — "when in doubt, call in."

But that was the end of his concentration for the afternoon. He never won a game. Jackiw easily took his serve when he finally hit four first services in succession, something he was unable to do until that point — and broke the distraught Sawchak to win the second set.

Then another brief controversy ensued when Jackiw asked for new balls to start the third set. Sawchak objected to no avail. Tournament director Roman Rakotchyj Sr. cited precedents for new balls in the third set upon one player's request.

Jackiw, now obviously buoyed by his second set encountered only second set problems against fourth-seeded Alex Olyneec ("Tryzub" Philadelphia), making an excellent comeback after last year's knee injury, and won 6-1, 6-4.

In the quarters, Sawchak defeated Victor Herlinsky (KLK), last year's senior men's champion who chose to play in the men's division, 6-3, 8-6. Snylyk eliminated Roman Rakotchyj Jr. (KLK), an up and coming player, 6-2, 6-1. Olyneec had his hands full with the always dangerous Zenon Markewych (KLK), 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, and Jackiw beat Roman Wirschuk, the playing dentist from Chicago, 6-2, 6-2.

Missing from the field of 21 players were such proven competitors as Michael Shyan (KLK), last year's finalist, and Dr. Zenon Matkiwsky (KLK), both unable to participate for professional reasons.

Supervising the tourney was R. Rakotchyj Sr., with Peter Shyprykewych, Myron Mahmet, Z. Snylyk and G. Sawchak comprising the tournament committee.

After the finals, Messrs. Bohdan Rak, R. Rakotchyj, Dr. M. Snihurowycz, KLK president Roman Hawrylak, Sawchak and Snylyk met in a two-hour session to smooth out rules and regulations for all forthcoming tourneys. They will be made public after final editing.

Valedictory

By A.M.F. CHIROVSKY

The grooming of the waves and the shifting of the sand all seemed to tell that the time had come to bid the last farewell. The clouds traversed the sky, saying silently, "Goodbye." And the time was quietly reminded by the bell.

And so remembering the heat and sun, The sunshine and the rain, The happiness and pain, And to the tolling of the dinner-hour bell, We bid our last farewell.

A Tragic Loss

One year, one month and four days after his episcopal consecration at Philadelphia's Immaculate Conception Cathedral, Bishop John Stock perished in a car crash last June 29th, leaving a bereaved community of his peers and faithful still shocked by the tragedy of this loss.

A modest, deeply humane and pious man, the late Bishop was perhaps the epitome of a God's servant. Totally dedicated to Christ's Church, his priestly career is replete with examples of concern for the well-being of his flock and his people. From Minneapolis to Yonkers, the Ukrainian Catholic faithful admired the likable, good-natured pastor who attended in his own, kind way to their spiritual and often material needs. Born in this country almost 54 years ago, he was raised in Pennsylvania, the heart of Ukrainian settlement before World War II. Ukrainianism for him was to follow his vocation and to help his people. He succeeded in both.

When thousands of Ukrainian refugees could find neither home nor haven across the devastated continent of Europe after the Second World War, Bishop Stock's consoling presence rekindled hope while his persistent efforts secured a new chance on life for countless Ukrainian families. It was a Ukrainian priest and a human being at work. He toiled for six years and, upon his return to the U.S., he looked in on those of us he had helped resettle, again offering advice and assistance in starting a new life.

What was to be the rewarding highlight of his priestly career—the elevation to the rank of Auxiliary Bishop—was marred by a controversy that threatened to disrupt the entire Ukrainian Catholic community. Yet even the most bitter of opponents to the manner of his appointment had only kind words for the late Bishop as man and priest. And he proved his worth—if proof, indeed, was needed—to the Ukrainian Catholic Church and to our community in the tragically short period of his episcopal tenure. May the memory of this truly good man and priest live with us forever.

Dissent Spreads

"If the non-Russian nations were ever able to integrate their activities and present a united front against Russification, Moscow would have a major challenge on its hands," concludes an editorial in the July 6th issue of the New York Times. The article, titled "Russification" comments on the recent tragedies of self-immolation in Lithuania as a means of calling world attention to the plight of that repressed nation.

What is most remarkable about this resistance to Russification in Lithuania, says the N.Y. Times, is the role of the young people, born and raised under the Soviet system. This, of course, is also the case in Ukraine and other republics of the USSR, as we have observed over the years. The strongest opposition to the ruling regime comes from people in their twenties, thirties and early forties, those that have no recollection, much less experience, of freedom and independence. These are the Chornovils, Svitlychnys, Dzyubas, Sverstyuks and countless others whose courage and heroism is worthy of their freedom-fighting predecessors. They are the spokesmen and the standard-bearers for what they feel are their human and constitutional rights, trampled even though they are at every turn by the very regime that proclaims them.

"There is every reason to suppose that there is similar nationalist passion in the Ukraine, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, and other non-Russian republics..." says the N.Y. Times.

Whether it is a "passion" or a dream or a right is less significant than the fact that the ranks of those brave men and women who are willing to stand up for it are increasing, transcending national boundaries and enveloping ever growing masses. Moscow's brutal repressions—witness arrests, trials, incarceration—constitute heinous testimony that it has already been challenged.

Professor Carries Warning, Plea to Capital

Prof. Kowtoniuk carries flag and a placard on way to the capital.

PETERSBURG, Va. — Dr. Filimon D. Kowtoniuk, former professor of languages at Virginia State College, marched from Petersburg, Va., to Washington, D.C., to publicize his warning that communism is taking over colleges and universities in the U.S.

The purpose of his eight-day, 150-mile solo walk was to draw public attention to what happens on campuses when ultra-liberal and Communist factions gain control, he said. He also carried petitions to U.S. Senators Harry Byrd and William Spung and a letter to President Nixon concerning the arrests of Ukrainian writers in the Soviet Union.

Lectures

Dr. Kowtoniuk began his march with a press conference at Virginia State College, which received coverage by the Petersburg Progress-Index on June 24 and local radio and television stations. On his stops along the way he lectured and showed the film, "Communism on our campuses." People stopped him on his journey to assure him, "We are 100 per cent behind you," and motel owners refused to accept payment from him.

Dr. Kowtoniuk finished his march at the Washington Monument and held a press conference at the monument of Taras Shevchenko, where he also placed a wreath.

Dr. Kowtoniuk is currently awaiting court action on his charges that he lost his job at Virginia State College because of his anti-Communist actions. He was notified in September 1971 that his contract as associate professor of languages would not be renewed after the school year due to "unprofessional conduct."

His troubles began when in Oct. 1969 when he opposed the school administration's plans to support faculty-student protests against American involvement in Vietnam and organized a counterprotest. In spring of 1970 he protested against the campus demonstrations against the sending of American troops into Cambodia and the Kent State killings. He was subsequently notified of the termination of his contract.

Dr. Kowtoniuk won a court injunction in September, 1970, barring the withdrawal of his contract, but in faculty hearings in April, 1971, he was found guilty of "unprofessional conduct" and again was told his contract would not be renewed following the 1971-1972 school year.

Vindicated

Public hearings on his case were held by the Virginia House Appropriations Committee in the State Capitol in Richmond last March, and Dr. Kowtoniuk is expecting a court decision to come through in either December of this year or next January.

ELLENVILLE, N.Y.—Over 2,000 people from Canada and the United States attended the two-day program July 1 and 2 held at the SUMA camp here commemorating the 30th anniversary of the Ukrainian Insurgent Army (UPA).

"Topping Out" at Paulus Hook

1,000 above shows the 23-story Paulus Hook Towers in Jersey City, now under construction. In the background is the steel frame of the UNA skyscraper, scheduled for completion early next year.

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — The American stars and stripes, flanked by the Ukrainian and Puerto-Rican banners, fluttered atop the 23rd story of the Paulus Hook Towers here last Wednesday, July 5, as the housing project's frame was "topped out."

It was the second such ceremony in less than a month here: on June 9th UNA's 15-story steel frame reached the penthouse, marking the completion of this phase of construction.

The Paulus Hook Towers is a federal, state, and city financed project built at a cost of $8.5 million for moderate income tenants. It will have 300 apartments of various sizes. The sponsorship and administrative supervision of the building has been entrusted to the UNA and the local Puerto-Rican organization. Heading the corporation is UNA President Joseph Lesawyer; its vice-presidents are Walter Sochan, UNA Vice-President and Recording Secretary, and Perfecto Oyola; secretary is UNA Treasurer Ulana Diachuk, while Rev. Hector A. Martinez-Mena is treasurer.

The corporation's officers were joined by Jersey City Mayor Paul T.
