TORONTO, Ont. — Prof. Eugene Wertyporoch, outstanding Ukrainian chemist and Professor Emeritus of Toronto's Ryerson Institute of Technology, who was president of the Supreme Council of the Shevchenko Scientific Societies and headed the Society's Canadian chapter, died Friday, January 12, 1973, in Toronto, Ont., of an apparent heart failure. Dr. Wertyporoch was 74 years old.

Prof. Eugene Wertyporoch

Born April 17, 1898, in the village Liashky Korolivaki in western Ukraine, Dr. Wertyporoch graduated from the Academic Gymnasium in Lviv in 1916 and, after his service in the Ukrainian Galician Army during Ukraine's War of National Liberation, enrolled at the Higher School of Polytechnics in Danzig, Germany. In 1928, he received his engineering degree and in 1939 his doctorate in chemical engineering. He also taught organic chemistry at the Danzig Polytechnic for eight years.

Prof. Wertyporoch was elected to the Shevchenko Society's membership in 1934. After spending six years in Warsaw, Poland, where he was director of a research firm, Prof. Wertyporoch came to Lviv in 1942 and taught chemistry and pharmaceuticals at the State Medical Institute.

After leaving his native Ukraine in the wake of the invading Red Armies, Prof. Wertyporoch taught for a while at the UNRRA University's School of Medicine and in 1947 joined the Ukrainian Technical Husbandry Institute as dean of its school of pharmaceuticals.

Since his arrival in Toronto in 1948, Prof. Wertyporoch worked at the University of Toronto Medical Research Laboratory before joining Ryerson Tech in 1956 as professor of chemistry.

He was elected head of Canada's Shevchenko Scientific Society in 1949 and secretary-general of the Societies Supreme Council in 1963. He assumed the Council's presidency in 1970, a post in which he served until his death.

Over the past year, Prof. Wertyporoch was working jointly with the Shevchenko Scientific Society's members in Canada, the U.S., Europe and Australia in preparation for the organization's centennial this year. As a scientist, Prof. Wertyporoch authored over 30 works in the Ukrainian, Polish, German and English languages, dealing with his research in chemistry and pharmaceutical science.

Surviving are his wife, Leonida, two daughters, Mrs. Christine Bolubash and Mrs. Bozhena Iwanusiw, sister Irene, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services are being held Saturday, January 20, in Toronto.

APPEAL of the Supreme Executive Committee of the Ukrainian National Association on the occasion of the 80TH ANNIVERSARY OF SVOBODA

On September 15, 1973, eighty years will have passed since the appearance of the first issue of "Svoboda" in Jersey City, N. J.

It was in the fourth issue of this Ukrainian newspaper that was to become the official organ of the Ukrainian National Association and a spokesman for the entire Ukrainian community in the United States, that Father Gregory Hrushka, its founder and first editor, wrote an article, entitled "We Need A National Organization", which said in part: "Just as the fish needs water, as the bird must have wings, as the thirsty need to drink and the hungry need bread, just as everyone needs air, so do we all Ukrainians scattered across the land need a national organization, namely such a brotherhood, such a national union that would embrace each and every Ukrainian no matter where he lives. One man can not lift a heavy stone, but when three or four men put their strength to it, the stone will soon be lifted. It is just as difficult for one man to rid himself of want and poverty, but with the help of a few he can do it."

This was the idea that a few months later became a reality when the Ukrainian National Association, the first Ukrainian civic organization in America, was founded in Shamokin, Pa., on February 22, 1894. The UNA, which eventually became the strongest Ukrainian organization in the free world, will mark its 80th anniversary next year.

The history of each of the subsequent eighty years provide ample evidence that it was indeed a blessed day when "Svoboda" made its first appearance as was the day when upon its urgings the Ukrainian National Association came into being. It is safe to say that no major undertaking for the benefit of all Ukrainians in the New World and in support of the Ukrainian people's aspirations in the Old World would have seen its successful consummation without the often decisive participation of the UNA and its official organ, "Svoboda". Examples of this are too numerous to cite. Just as in 1972 the UNA and "Svoboda" responded by word and deed to the most recent wave of terror and persecution in Ukraine, to the plight of our people victimized by floods in Pennsylvania and New York, to the nationwide fund-drive for the establishment of a Center of Ukrainian Studies at Harvard, and to every major action in the interest of our people, so in the past, over a period of 80 years, our Association and its organ "Svoboda" have sought to carry out the legacy of their founders to the best of their abilities, "toting the heavy stone" of our community's growth and helping our people in their struggle for freedom and independence. Their contributions to the development of the United States of America, now three years away from its Bicentennial of Independence, have been recognized in the highest quarters.

Now in its 80th year of uninterrupted publication, "Svoboda" is the oldest Ukrainian newspaper in the world. Newspapers that were started earlier in Ukraine were banned by the enemies that occupied the country. The Ukrainian Weekly, the English language organ of the UNA now in its 40th year of uninterrupted appearance, is the oldest Ukrainian publication of its kind. Yet another publication brought out by the UNA, the children's magazine "Veselka" is now in its 20th year of continuous appearance. On the occasion of "Svoboda's" 80th anniversary and its continuous service to the Ukrainian community and to the Ukrainian people, we are proclaiming 1973 — SVOBODA JUBILEE YEAR. We are calling on all readers of our publications and all members of the UNA to intensify their efforts in this "Svoboda" jubilee year towards the ultimate fulfillment of its founders' legacy: dedicated service to the Ukrainian cause and unification of all Ukrainians in the New World in the fraternal family of our Soyuz, and thus work jointly, with greater power and resources, for a better future of our people here and in their native country.

Rev. Lubomyr Huzar Receives Doctorate

ROME, ITALY — Rev. Lubomyr Huzar, young Ukrainian priest from the U.S. who is particularly well known among Ukrainians for his pastoral work at Soyuzivka and the neighboring youth camp sites, has been awarded a doctorate in theology after successfully defending his dissertation on December 15, 1972, titled "Ecumenical Views and Activity of Metropolitan Andrew Sheptytsky."

Three Years Work

Rev. Huzar, who spent the last three years in Rome working on his doctorate, was awarded the degree by the Pope Urban University here with "magna cum laude". His dissertation, written in English and running close to 1,000 pages, is actually a major source work on the late Metropolitan Sheptytsky. In preparing it, the young priest has utilized virtually all available material on Metropolitan Sheptytsky.

The dissertation committee which included Ukrainian and non-Ukrainian theologians found Rev. Huzar's work

"multa, sed autem multum", or, "not only extensive, but also profound."

Rev. Huzar defended his dissertation in English and presented to the committee a condensed version of his study, stressing the core of his thesis that the Metropolitan was a precursor of modern-day ecumenism and closer unity among all Christians. Rev. Huzar worked closely with Msgr. Dr. Ivan Vodopivets, a Slovenian scholar-theologian who heads the chair of ecclesiology at the University here.

Relevant Study

Rev. Huzar's work is considered of special relevance now, since efforts are underway for Metropolitan Sheptytsky's beatification. Moreover, the dissertation shows conclusively that Metropolitan Sheptytsky was in many respects ahead of his times, working (Continued on p. 2)
